Banks Support Uptown Stores

George Svirsky, president of the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association, today revealed that the organization's $25,000 a year advertising, public relations, and promotional program is "A-OK and Go" by virtue of solid support from area merchants and financial institutions.

Mr. Svirsky said that membership contracts and dues commitments have been signed by more than 90 per cent of uptown business firms, and that the six area financial institutions have pledged their support to the program. The program is designed to strengthen uptown Kingston's position as a leading business and financial center in the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Quotes From Bankers

Svirsky quoted Kingston Trust Company president George Rusk as saying he's "100 per cent behind the efforts of the Uptown Business Men's Assaciation," and hopes that "every business and professional member of the uptown business community will support this joint effort for growth and prosperity."

A. Raymond Atkins, president of the State of New York National Bank commented that "this move by the Uptown Business Men's Association is a necessary and welcome step towards progress, and deserves the full cooperation of every merchant and professional man who conducts his business in the uptown area."

Similar sentiments were expressed by other financial institution presidents. Lloyd LeFever, president of the Kingston Savings Bank, said he was "encouraged by the determination of the uptown business community to work towards a stronger and more vital uptown business district."

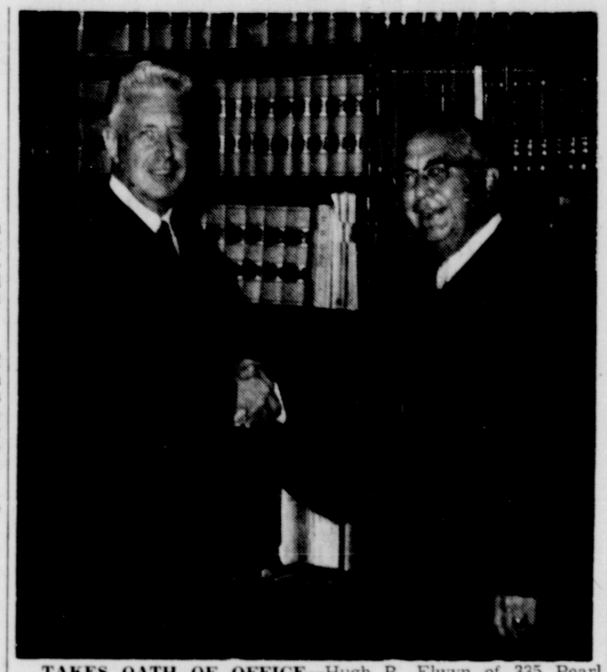

Pratt Boice, president of the Ulster County Savings Institution, added his feeling that "the goal of establishing uptown Kingston as a leading market center for the entire valley deserves the strong support of all members of the uptown business community."

Other Endorsements

Alfred O. Ronder, president of the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, stated that he was "very much impressed by the spirit of cooperation shown by the uptown business community in a program which must be supported for the common good."

And, Judge John B. Sterley,

Companies To Hold Up Rules

Officials, Union Men Attend Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy proposed today that Supreme Court Justice Arthur J. Goldberg be empowered to decide all issues in the dispute between the railroads and the operating unions over work rules.

J. E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, told newsmen of Kennedy's proposal at the conclusion of a White House parley of both sides in the dispute.

He said that if both sides accept, the work rules will not be put into effect until Goldber has made his binding report.

Wolfe said the report would be made before the Supreme Court convenes for its 193-64 term in October.

Wednesday Deadline

Wolfe said he thinks the date would be prior to Sept. 30.

He said both sides to the dispute have until 10 a.m. Wednesday to "carefully consider the proposal."

He said the carriers will give the President's proposal the "most profound consideration."

"More than anyone we are interested in a peaceful conclusion to this dispute which could undoubtedly turn into a national catastrophe," Wolfe said.

Knows Both Sides

Goldberg, a former labor lawyer, was appointed to the Supreme Court after serving as Secretary of Labor in Kennedy's Cabinet.

Taking part in the White House session were top officials of the railroad industry and the five operating unions who threaten an immediate strike if the lines put in their manpower-cutting work rules at 12:01 a.m. Thursday as planned."

Kennedy conferred earlier today with Democratic congressional leaders.

Discussed Generally

After the breakfast meeting, House Speaker John McCormack, D-Mass., said the railway dispute was discussed only generally.

"Nothing was gone into in detail because the President will meet with representatives of management and the unions," McCormack told newsmen.

The four-year dispute over new work rules bounced back into the President's lap Monday when Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz made a final report on the futile attempts of his department to bring about a settlement despite day and night efforts.

Sets Deadline

Kennedy on June 15 set a July 10 deadline for company and union representatives to resolve their differences. Terming a strike and its effect on the nation's economy "intolerable." Kennedy has said he would seek legislative action if needed to prevent a rail tie-up.

The railroads claim that jobs they describe as unnecessary are costing $600 million a year. The unions claim the work force is efficient and should be maintained at its present number for safe operation of the trains

Agreements Made

In the event of a strike, the unions have offered to continue working on passenger and commuter trains under the old work rules and to move troops, military supplies "or food for the pub-

Better Soviet-West Ties Seen

Chinese Absent After New Moscow Charges

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist Chinese negotiators failed to show up at the Moscow-Peking reconciliation talks today after the Soviet Union fired new charges at Red China and warned of "dangerous consequences."

The interruption in the ideological talks between the two Communist giants came as Belgian Foreign Minister Paul - Henri Spaak, returning from a meeting with Premier Khrushchev, predicted Soviet relations with the West will improve.

Deliberate Aggravation

The Soviet Communist party central committee earlier today accused the Chinese of deliberately aggravating Soviet-Chinese relations at a time when the two countries are discussing ideological differences.

At the mansion in the Lenin Hills section of Moscow where the talks have been held, Western correspondents noted the usual signs of pre-meeting activity today.

But at 11 a.m., more than an hour after the talks usually begin, there was still no sign of the Chinese. Soviet officials began leaving, and then police said the Chinese would not be coming.

May Halt Sessions

The Chinese absence aroused speculation that they were awaiting Peking's reaction to the new Soviet attack. Some observers thought the Chinese might call an end to the sessions in retaliation.

The Soviet Communist party Central Committee accused the Chinese of deliberately aggavating Soviet-Chinese relations at a time when the two countries are discussing ideological differences.

K Snubs Chinese

The Soviet blast came shortly after Khrushchev snubbed the Moscow meeting with the Chinese and conferred in Kiev with Spaak on easing cold war tensions. The Chinese militantly oppose Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence policy, underlined by his meeting with Spaak.

The new Soviet party statement denounced speeches at a rally in Peking Sunday in support of five Chinese expelled from the Soviet Union. They had distributed reprints in the Soviet Union of the Chinese Communist party's long denunciation June 14 of Khrushchev's policies.

The Soviet statement said speakers at the rally tended to create "moods unfriendly to the Soviet people, to aggravate the situation in the course of negotiations between the representatives of the Soviet Union and China.

"The impression is created that a deliberate campaign is being carried on to aggravate seriously

Rocky Stresses Washington Aim For Governors

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller is utilizing the approaching meeting of the Governors Conference as a forum for reminding Republicans he is still on the political scene and still has very positive ideas about major, national issues.

In a series of resolutions prepared for the meeting July 22-24, Rockefeller restates his position on such problems as civil rights, medical care for the aged and mass transportation.

Could Help Him

Some of the proposals are highly controversial and the governor is looming as the storm center of the gathering of chief executives. The attention could help him.

Rockefeller is thought by many to be planning a bid for the Republican nomination for president next year. Only six months ago, he was considered by many as the Republicans' leading prospect for the nomination.

But the picture changed quickly with Rockefeller's marriage May 4 to a woman 19 years his junior. Both he and his new wife had been divorced within 16 months of the ceremony.

Goldwater Advances

As Rockefeller faltered politically, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a leader of the Republican Party's conservative wing, surged forward and has dominated GOP presidential discussion in recent weeks.

Neither Goldwater nor Rockefeller has made any formal announcement of his candidacy.

But Rockefeller's resolutions for the Governors Conference indicate his thoughts have not shifted from the national scene.

He made public Monday a resolution urging the organization of chief executives to take a formal stand against three proposed states' rights amendments to the U.S. constitution.

The proposals would allow states to amend the constitution independently of Congress, would strip the U.S. Supreme Court of its power to act on state legislative apportionment and would create a "Court of the Union," comprised of chief judges of state courts, which could overrule the

Rondout Valley Annual School Meeting Tonight

The annual meeting of the Rondout Valley Central School District will be held in the high school auditorium tonight, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. At this meeting, the voters of the district wll be asked to vote on the budget, the election of three board members and several propositions.

The over-all budget calls for a total expenditure of $1,910,000, as compared to $1,760,000 for the current year. The increase comes, prncipally, in the instructional service area. Increased enrollments called for an increase of eight teachers for the coming school year. The enrollments continue to rise between eight to ten per cent a year.

Of the increase in the budget, $110,000 will come from state aid and other sources, leaving $40,000 to be raised by local tax. This represents an increase of approximately eighty cents per thousand dollars of true value.

No Opposing Candidates

Three terms on the Board of Educaton expire this year. The incumbents are Mrs. Gladys Carle, DeWitt Hasbrouck and Franklin Kelder, president of the board. All three are candidates to succeed themselves. No opposing nominating petitions have been filed.

Four propositons are to be considered at the meetinng, also. Thees are: (1) The purchase of two school buses—one 61 passenger vehicle to provide for the increased enrollment and a 12 passenger vehicle to replace one whch is no longer serviceable (2) The awarding of three year transportation contracts. (3) The erection of a school bus garage which will serve as a maintenance center for district owned equipment and a shop and classroom area for the agriculture department and (4) Provision, at district expense, of pupil accident insurance.

Spy Data Could Bring About Shift In NATO Defense

PARIS (AP)—Information that arrested Swedish Col Stig Wennerstroem may have passed on to the Russians could lead NATO military planners to recast some of their plans for defense in the north, informants here indicated today.

But there was no public sign of consternation in North Atlantic Treaty Organization circles over the sensational Wennerstroem spy case.

Wennerstroem, a former air attache in Washington, is accused in Sweden of spying for the Russians.

Supreme Allied Headquarters for Europe and NATO political headquarters in Paris decline any official comment on the Wennerstroem affair.

Welder Is Injured Doing Job on Boat At Reliance Yard

Raymond J. Conlin, 65, of 35 Du Flon Street, injured Monday afternoon in an unusual accident at Reliance Marine Transportation and Construction Corp. on Abeel Street, where he is employed, was reported in "fair" condition today in Benedictine Hospital.

He suffered neck burns and back injury.

Attendants from Doctors Ambulance said a crane boom was used to carry Conlin on a rigging from inside a steel barge under construction, where he was working, and then to the nearby dock from where he was transported to the hospital. Ambulance attendants administered oxygen en route.

Conlin reportedly was doing electrical welding when the accident happened. One source said that it was believed Conlin backed into a plate while using the welding unit and suffered the brunt of an electric shock when the unit either short circuited or was grounded. Attendants had to crawl through a narrow opening to reach the injured man and hooked the rigging to a cot by use of cables and chain.

Record Low of 48 Recorded Here at 4:30 A. M. Today

Cool, dry air covering most of the East dropped temperatures near the freezing mark overnight in some low areas of Ulster County, and a record low of 48 was reported at 4:30 a. m. today by Kingston City Engineers.

An unofficial low of 35 was reported at Zena. A survey of Freeman check points listed unofficial low temperatures of 54 at Ashokan Reservoir Gatehouse and 41 at Centerville in Town of Saugerties.

City engineers reported the low of 48 was a record for this date. The pervious low was 54 in 1954. Record lows for July — 50 degrees — was recorded July 1, 1940, July 12, 1954, and July 21, 1956.

According to the Associated Press most of the eastern half of the nation except southern sections of the Gulf States experienced overnight temperature decreases.

Temperatures averaged 10 to 15 degrees lower than Monday morning from the northern Atlantic states and the lower Great Lakes region into sections of the middle Mississippi Valley. Readings in the 40s and 50s were reported from the Great Lakes into the north Atlantic states.

Temperatures again were in the 70s and 80s in the Gulf states into the southern Atlantic states. They were in the 60s in most other areas in the eastern half of the country.

Cloudy skies, with scattered showers and thunderstorms, covered most areas from the south Atlantic states through the Gulf states and in New England. One of the heaviest rains, nearly two inches, fell in Charleston, S.D., in a six-hour period.

Weather in the western half of the country showed only minor changes from the past several days. Skies were generally clear in California and Nevada and partly cloudy in most other sections. Light rain fell along coastal areas of Washington and thundershowers were reported in the Rockies. It was a little cooler in the northern Rockies but fairly warm weather prevailed in most other sections.

Named Chairman of County Campaign for Mental Health

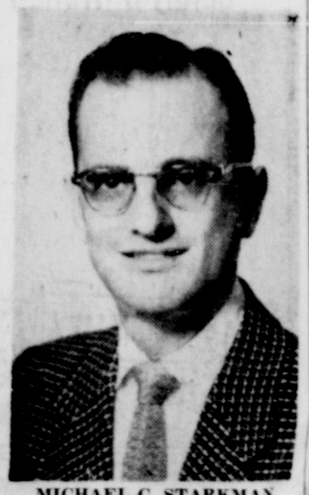

Michael C. Starkman, president of Valley Advertising Agency, Inc., of Fair Street, has accepted the post of chairman for the commerce and industry fund-raising campaign of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, Inc.

It is hoped that $4000 will be raised to subsidize the various service activities of the local mental health organization. The campaign will take place July 15-27, Chairman Starkman reported.

Funds raised during the campaign will sponsor such programs as the institute on alcoholism which was held last fall under the auspices of the local association, Starkman noted. At that time 190 persons attended day-long sessions, featuring speakers and panelists on the subject of alcoholism.

The second institute is already in the planning stages, Starkman said. The topic of the institute and date are to be announced in the near future.

Starkman is chairman of the Public Relations Committee of Kingston Kiwanis, and an associate member of Ulster County Board of Realtors. Since 1949 he has been engaged in public relations, advertising, sales promotion for business, trade and resort groups. Congress Hearings on CR Proceed on Three Fronts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional hearings on the administration's civil rights program proceed on three fronts today, while at the White House President Kennedy appeals to women's organizations for help in easing racial tensions.

The Senate Commerce Commmittee called the Justice Department's civil rights chief, Asst. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall, for further questioning about a bill to ban racial discrimination serving the public.

Marshall, in his opening testimony Monday, said if the bill were passed "there would not be any significant establishments that wouldn't be covered."

Two House Labor and education subcommittees went ahead with hearings on other aspects of the President's program.

Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze was to appear before one of them to urge an expanded manpower retraining program designed to help more Negroes acquire job skills.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., a Negro, was to testify on legislation to give government agencies discretionary authority to deny federal aid funds for programs in which racial discrimination occurs.

The Senate committeee, in conducting hearings on the public accommodations part of the civil rights legislation, has heard only administratin spokesmen so far. It is to hear another Wednesday, when Secretary of State Dean Rusk testifies.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., a committee member who has assailed the bill as an unconstitutional assault on private property rights, said he is making arrangements for opponents to testify.

Thurmond told newsmen he hasn't had responses yet from all

Mitchell said he will do "organizational work on the Eastern Seaboard," beginning next fall.

In his letter of resignation to the City Council Monday, Mitchell said:

The tightened welfare code was condemned by New York State and federal welfare officials and by groups and individuals across

Agitators Greet Greek Royalty in Visit to London

LONDON (AP) — Greek King Paul and Queen Frederika arrived today for a state visit plagued by Communists, anarchists, pacificsts and other agitators.

Police beat back an attempted demonstration outside Buckingham Palace.

Met at Victoria Station by Queen Elizabeth II, the royal party drove in state carriages to the palace. Britain's tightest peacetime security guard kept the queen and her visitors from even seeing the demonstrators who tried to mar the welcoming procession.

Four Day Visit

Police beat back youthful pickets as the Greek king and queen entered Buckingham Palace to begin the four-day state visit.

"We aren't provoking violence," protested Kenneth Brown, 18, a student. 'We just want to picket the palace."

The most determined effort to spoil the royal arrival was at the side of the palace.

"About 50 of our people wanted to stage a demonstration outside the palace," said Terry Chandler, 23, who described himself as chairman of a Save Greece Now Committee.

"But the police roughed us up and wouldn't let us," he said.

The nearest thing to an incident between the visiting royal couple and demonstrators came in a side street near the station.

Screaming, "Release my husband, release him," Mrs. Betty Ambatielos, British-born wife of an imprisoned Greek Communist was dragged away by the police.

Mrs. Ambatielos, 45, was released after the royal procession passed.

Not Giving Up

The demonstrators were far from giving up.

"We aim to follow the king and queen everywhere they go. Every time they appear in public, we'll be there," said a spokesman for Britain's militant Committee of 100, which charges Greece is holding 960 political prisoners and demands their release.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Seen moving through Dayton Monday was a Michigan-licensed station wagon crammed full of children—all sizes, all shapes, all ages.

Peace May Come For Top Politicos In Argentine Vote

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—The candidates of two estranged political parties — the leader and runner-up in Sunday's presidential election — today showed signs of wanting to make peace.

The Popular Radical party headed by Arturo Illia, 62, a country doctor, led with 2,367,154 votes, 25 per cent of the ballots.

The Intransigent Radical party of Oscar Alende, 54, a city surgeon, was second with 1,525,384 votes, 16.3 per cent.

Illia and Alende head segments of the old middle-of-the-road Radical party which split in 1956.

Illia needed 51 per cent of the vote to assure his election in the Electoral College which meets July 31. Under the Argentine system, electors are permitted to switch their votes to other candidates if their candidates fail to achieve the 51 per cent requirement.

Sentencing was scheduled for yesterday, but was postponed until next Monday.

Krom was arrested June 26 on a bench warrant issued by Judge Moon. The youth was named in a sealed indictment handed up by the May Grand Jury.

Greene County District Attorney Alex Wiltse said Krom was among a number of young people indicted by the grand jury along with Ernest Gill, 68, of Palenville, at whose property the alleged "disorderly house party" was held.

Gill was indicted on a similar count along with other charges, including allegedly allowing children under 16 to be placed where their morals were exposed to corruption. Several motions are pending in the indictment on some 25 counts, including impairing the morals of minors, serving alcoholic beverages to minors and permitting children to attend resorts. Eleven counts were dismissed on motion of Seymour Meadow, attorney for Gill. However, District Attorney Wiltse reserved the right for resubmission while motions are pending on other counts.

Wiltse, Leeds troopers and other law enforcement officers raided the Gill property, where, they said young people were involved in a "party" where intoxicating beverages were being consumed. Those under age, named in the indictments were treated as youthful offenders.

Krom, the district attorney said allegedly purchased beer and brandy and took it to the Gill place, where it was served to children under 18 years of age, including some 12 and 13-year-olds.

Several teenage girls from Palenville - Saugerties - Catskill areas, reportedly involved in the "party" were among those who testified before the grand jury during the latter part of May.

Bid Is Withdrawn To 16 Astros for Story on Flights

CHICAGO (AP) — Withdrawal of a $3.2 million contract bid to the nation's 16 astronauts for personal stories of their space flights has been announced by Field Enterprises Educational Corp.

Corporation President Bailey K. Howard, in a statement Monday, said the publishing firm hadn't been able to "obtain a meeting of minds" with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Following our most recent conversations with officials of NASA," Howard said, "we have reached the conclusion that further negotiations would be futile."

The space administration, while not a party to the contract, had assumed responsibility for passing on its provisions. The proposal, announced last January, drew immediate congressional and press criticism.

Involved were 16 astronauts, including the original seven. The contract would have been for flights in the two-man Gemini capsule, slated for next year ,and in the Apollo capsule designed to carry the three-man expedition to the moon.

Field Enterprises Educational Corp., which publishes the World Book Encyclopedia, had offered to establish a nonprofit company which would have paid the astronauts $3.2 million over a 10-year period or until the first moon landing.

Book, magazine, newspaper, television, radio and motion picture rights for both project Gemini and project Apollo would have been covered in the proposed contract.

Youth Seized On Way to Meet Family Members

NEW YORK (AP) — Gregory Egan, 19, who escaped from a courtroom in a hail of bullets Thursday, was arrested before dawn today as he walked to a rendezvous with his mother and a brother who is a policeman.

Egan's father, a retired policeman, and his uncle, a city detective, had joined the patrolman-brother and 100 other officers in the search.

Egan had arranged secretly with relatives and his lawyer to surrender at a Bronx police station. He was arrested by six off-duty patrolmen who spotted him two blocks from the rendezvous. He didn't resist.

Egan jumped through a second-floor window of the Bronx Courthouse after his arraignment on charges of kidnaping a cab driver and using the taxi in two robberies. Six policemen gave chase, firing at him.

His relatives, including another brother charged by police with concealing him, appealed to Egan to surrender.

Police said one of the patrolmen who spotted Egan today went up to him and said, "Hi, Gregory."

"My name is Tom Kaney," said Egan.

"Oh yeah," said the patrolman, "what are you doing out here?"

Egan said he was looking for a priest to hear his confession.

"Where are you going to find a priest here at this hour," asked the patrolman.

"Ok," said Egan, "just don't shoot me."

Bronx Is Scene Of New Violence As CORE Pickets

NEW YORK (AP)—Racial violence erupted for the third night in a row Monday near a Bronx diner being picketed by the Congress of Racial Equality.

A crowd of more than 1,000 jeering whites was broken up by 200 policemen using nightsticks to prod them.

White youths hurled rocks and vegetables at cars carrying Negroes in the neighborhood after a three-block area around the White Castle diner was cordoned off.

A Negro private detective, who said he fired a pistol shot over the heads of white youths who threw stones at him, was given a summons to court for unlawfully firing the gun in the city. The detective, Wilbert Johnson, 57, has a permit for the pistol.

Police arrested two Negroes after a patrolman said he saw them with a shotgun. The officer saw the gun when the Negroes stopped their car near the diner.

The pickets, who want the diner chain to hire more Negroes, began to leave about 11:30 Monday night and the last had left by 1 a.m. today.

Their spokesman said they would return today.

Police maintained tight security on the neighborhood which, officers say, is normally quiet. It is racially mixed.

A CORE spokesman said the group wants the diner chain to hire 25 Negroes a month until a "fair percentage" of the employes are Negro.

A spokesman for the company said the chain's policy is to hire more Negroes, but he contended that CORE's demands are unreasonable.

Following graduation from the WAVE Training Center in Bainbridge, Md., Miss Krogh was assigned to the Newport base.

Voters who work or attend school outside of Ulster County may register now during Central Registration which will continue until Sept. 20 at the elections office, 74 John Street. Absentee ballots also may be requested.

Marine Killed in Crash

FULTONVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Marine S-Sgt. Harold F. Nightingale, 32, was injured fatally Monday night when his automobile went out of control on the New York State Thruway and overturned about one-and-a-half miles west of here.

State Police said Nightingale, who was stationed at Camp LeJeune, N.C., was enroute to Syracuse University to attend school.

SAFETY SWITCH—One complaint about seat belts is that some people install them in their cars but don't use them. Well, it can't happen with the belt worn by the pretty miss above. Either it is fastened—or the car won't start. The belt is equipped with an "electronic watchdog" manufactured by Maurer Safety Devices, Inc., that won't permit the ignition to work until the belt is buckled.

Capital News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

ON THE RISE: A record national production rate this year of $583 billion seems in the offing, matching the most optimstic expectation of the President's Council of Eeconomic Advisers.

Although official figures for the quarter just ended are not due until next week, experts said Monday it appears that the production rate for April through June was about $581 billion.

While a showdown in the third quarter is expected, some government economists now expect the production rate to rise by perhaps another $12 billion by the final quarter of the year. If so, the annual rate in the October-December period might be upwards of $593 billion and actual output for this year could be around $583 billion.

RADIOACTIVE Canines: Prject 64-I-2 lead to a dogfight in the House but when it was finished only President Kennedy's signature was needed to supply the Atomic Energy Commission's dogs with kennels.

The fracas broke out on the floor Monday as a $216 millon authorization bill for the AEC came up for a vote.

Rep. Jack Westland, R-Wash., fired the opening salvo by proposing an amendment to eliminate $500,000 sought for the project—"Additional Animal Quarters, Lovelace Foundation, Albuquerque, N.M."

Westland said the money would build kennels for 600 dogs for experiments in which the animals inhale radioactive material. He got help from Rep. H.R. Gross, R-Iowa, who said, "I don't understand why they don't use cats, it costs less to house them."

The AEC hopes the experiments will tell scientists more about the effect of radioactive materials on humans. The House said go ahead, defeating Westland's amendment 46 to 20 and sending the bill to the President.

CHARGE STANDS: U.S. Dist. Judge William B. Jones has refused to dismiss an indictment against Igor Cassini, New York society columnist charged with failing to register as a paid publicity agent for Rafael Trujillo, the late dictator of the Dominican Republic.

Louis Nizer, Cassini's attorney, had asked Jones to dmiss the indictment on grounds Justice Department officials gave grand jury testimony to Peter Maas, a Saturday Evening Post editor, for an article published before the indictment.

Emphasis on Interest, Not Grades

Helderberg Workshop Has Unusual Education Program

By HERBERT G. PELKEY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—"What is art?" a teacher once asked.

"Is it straight rows in a classroom, pay attention, no talking, ABC, flunk?"

At the Helderberg Workshop, an unusual program in education, it might be ice cream cranked in a freezer with a sprinkling of Dixieland jazz and Mozart.

The workshop, now in its third season, is the brainchild of Mrs. Robert W. Pauley of Slingerlands who, with the aid of interested parents, conceived the idea that emphasis on interest and not on grades, coupled with the resources of the community, would open new vistas of knowledge to inquiring youngsters.

No Cost to District

At the workshop there are no text books, no homework, no examinations, and no school credit is offered. The courses themselves, such as "Fun with numbers," are unlikely to be found in elementary or high school offerings. The word "school" is studiously avoided.

Rather, Dr. Warren W. Knox of the State Education Department said, "the skies are unlimited and students free from curriculum restrictions can pursue legitimate interests in science, art or whatever."

This year more than 300 students, ranging in age from 6 to 16, are expected to attend workshop classes at Clayton A. Bouton High School in nearby Voorheesville. The courses range from FUN WITH Fine Arts to Functional Anatomy.

Dr. Harold E. Bookbinder, a director of the project and guidance counselor for the Bethlehem School district, explained "emphasis is not on brains. It is interest we are looking for here. The workshop seeks to stimulate its pupils, not smother them with routine and boredom."

Another advantage of the workshop, Bookbinder said, is that it offers pupils more opportunity to develop special interests than they are likely to get in a regular school.

No Text Books

The program is sponsored by parents at no cost to the school district. It's neither supervised nor regulated by the state.

Mrs. Pauley, who traces the idea to a summer program of marine life study at Woods Hole, Mass., says the only funds for the program project come from donations and from a $20 tuition charge for each pupil. There are no entrance requirements other than interest, she said. "This is not just a program for gifted children."

Classes are limited to 20 students. Instructors, selected from the ranks of high school and elementary teachers, college professors and industry, are paid $500 each for the three-week course. They are chosen for their prominence and ability to stimulate interest.

The high school facilities were provided with "no strings attached" by the Voorheesville School district, Mrs. Pauley said.

Dr. Knox said the project raised a lot of implications of what could be done with schools and was in line with the department's plans for making greater use of school facilities.

One of the 18 available courses, Life With an Iroquois Family, will be taught by two American Indians who are authorities on Indian Culture. One of them, Miss Adelphena Logan is a research consultant for the State Museum.

Mrs. Pauley, a housewife, calls it "education under ideal circumstances."

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JULY 9, 1963

FARM SAFETY WEEK

For many years farming has ranked as the third most hazardous occupation. Only mining, including quarrying and petroleum drilling and construction have higher death rates.

The death rate on farms was once below the national average, but in recent years it has been higher. And the difference seems to be increasing. In 1961 when the national rate fell to an all-time low of 50.4 per 100,000 population, the farm average rose to 58.8.

National Farms Safety Week, July 21-27, is an opportune time to examine the record to learn where farm safety falls down.

National Safety Council statistics show that motor vehicle, home and public accidents—the three largest accident categories nationally — hit farm residents about as hard as the rest of the country.

It is in work safety that farming lags behind. Work accidents are second only to motor vehicle accidents among farm residents, comprising 31 per cent of the total.

Other industries have developed safety procedures that have made work accidents the smallest of all four categories—accounting for 15 per cent of the nation's accident toll. These same procedures, put to work on the farm, can bring safety back into line with the national record.

A farmer must be many kinds of a craftsman. He often is called on to be a carpenter, an electrician, a mechanic. He uses fuels, chemicals, fertilizers and many different kinds of machines.

National Farm Safety Week is not a week in which to be more careful, then to be forgotten until next year. Instead it is a time to examine work habits, to compare methods with those proved effective in other industries and to seek out better and safer ways to do our jobs.

Accident prevention is a year-round job. An official "Week" is simply a reminder that emphasizes the importance of that job.

Every week should be Farm Safety Week.

THEY STUDY US, TOO

Ten years ago, some 34,000 students from abroad came to this country to study. That seemed like a lot. But now that total has doubled. During the 1962-63 school year about 64,000 students from 152 countries have been studying here.

"Here" means not merely a few institutions of higher learning. Of the 2,000 U. S. colleges and universities, more than 1,800 have foreign students on campus. In addition, more than 7,000 residents and interns from abroad were stationed at hospitals in the United States, and there also were about 6,000 foreign teachers and others doing scholarly work of one sort or another.

It requires little imagination to see how much the world's picture of us depends on how we treat these visitors. While here they do not merely read and attend lectures. They also study us, and carry back with them impressions of our society.

DEADLOCK IN 1964?

President Kennedy has had a break. The two Southern governors who have defied him most openly and in the process stepped pretty close to the edge of the law, Wallace of Alabama and Barnett of Mississippi, have declared war on him.

They spoke against the President's reelection at a dinner in Jackson, Miss. As the dinner cost $25 a place and the attendance was 1,000, they have gotten a good start on their campaign.

They propose to win by indirection. They will run a ticket of unpledged electors, hoping, if joined by enough Southern states, to get 116 electoral votes. That might easily keep either Mr. Kennedy or his Republican opponent from getting an electoral majority. In that case the House of Representatives, voting by states, would pick the next president. This is not likely, but neither is it a wild improbability under present circumstances.

Twice an electoral deadlock has forced the House to name the president, Jefferson in 1801 and John Quincy Adams in 1825. In both cases a number of ballots and several days' delay were required. In both cases the dispute was over personality, not principle. A deadlock when segregation was the issue might well be prolonged. The one person gaining from this condition would be Khrushchev.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

UNCLE SAM'S LOSS OF "DIGNIDAD"

When I was in Puerto Rico some years ago a member of the Serralles rum-distilling clan tried to explain to me the Latin concept of "Dignidad." To translate it is simple "dignity" was not quite right; apparently the concept also included something about honor and inviolability. It was a two-way proposition: Dignidad meant that one should be respected, but also that one must have reason to demand respect. The Serralles clan, at the time, was insistent that it be regarded as first class Spaniards, not as third-class Americans; Dignidad was very much on its mind.

Thinking about the business of temporizing with Castro in Cuba, I have more than once recalled that conversation about Dignidad in the hot Caribbean coastal town of Ponce. The trouble with the United States in relation to the Castro question is that it has had no Dignidad. In putting up with Fidel Castro's diatribes and insults, we do not respect ourselves. And it follows, as the night follows the day, that no Dignidad-loving Latin American from the Rio Grande all the way south to Patagonia can respect us.

Confirmation of this suspicion comes from Mexico, in a new Mexican-American Bulletin put out by Hugo Salinas Price at Apartado Postal No. 15049 Mexico 15, D.F., which is hereby recommended to the so-called Fourth Floor of the U. S. State Department. Full of Dignidad himself, Hugo Salinas Price minces no words on the subject of Castro. "In the eyes of our people," he says, "the fact that Castro is strong, and that he acts decisively and fearlessly, and the fact that the U. S. is impotent, is an overwhelming argument in favor of Castro. Outwardly, some of our people may not be sympathetic to Castro and Commu nism. But inwardly, they admire his valor, his decision, his will to attain a given goal, even over dead bodies."

This is laying it on the line. Stressing the "honor' component of Dignidad, Hugo Salinas Price points out that honor, in Mexican eyes, is bound up with "machismo," which is to be translated as "male-ism." The male Latin American cares very little for speeches on human rights, for, "in the Latin mentality, a man has a perfect right to kill with his hands, with a knife, or with a gun, anyone who dares to humiliate him."

Well, Castro and his sarcastic speech-making Minister of Economics, the Argentinian "Che" Guevara, have seized every possible occasion to humiliate the United States. And so the Mexicans feel only "hate and contempt" for a nation that allows itself to be so humiliated. "Mexicans," so Hugo Salinas Price continues, "do not care to be allied with a power that has been humiliated, and that tries to buy respect . . . The Mexican is fiercely proud, in the midst of poverty. The 'Alliance for Progress' completely ignores the fact that the Mexican is clearly aware of U. S. humiliation and degradation by Castro-Communism, and is still waiting for 'Tio Sam' to roll up his sleeves. The Mexican does not care a fig for propaganda about 'radical social reforms' because he has been hearing all this for 50 years, and it goes in one ear and out the other. What would powerfully impress him would be to see the U. S. pin Castro's ears back and eject Communism from Cuba."

Honor, so Hugo Salinas Price concludes, is a word that is respected far more than peace or tolerance in Mexico. "Each year," he says, "many people kill and are killed for its sake. That is the issue in the minds of Mexicans; an old-fashioned, unsophisticated issue which has not been grasped in Washington."

To be perfectly fair, some people do grasp the issue in Washington. Republican Senator Gordon Allott of Colorado would restore Uncle—or "Tio" —Sam's Dignidad by creating a Cuban government-in-exile and letting it set up its provisional capital on the U. S. Naval base at Guantanamo. This would be throwing something right in Fidel Castro's face. The Mexican government, along with the Brazilian government, might officially object to the infringement of the concept of self-determination implied in backing a Cuban government-in-exile with the guns of a foreign naval base. But, as Hugo Salinas Price insists, the Latin American respects Dignidad more than he does finicking over nice shades of legality.

So get going, 'Tio" Sam. You have nothing to lose but your loss of face.

New Chemical Aids Those With Chronic Canker Sores

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My husband gets canker sores in his mouth. He has used many treatments but they always come back and are hard to get rid of. What causes them and is there any cure?

A—Canker sores are usually caused by a virus. But in some persons a food allergy appears to be the cause. Recurrences are the rule rather than the exception.

A new chemical, 5-iododeoxyuridine, has been found to cure the disease. A solution of the drug is painted on the sore or it is applied in an ointment. Healing occurs in 1 to 5 days instead of the usual 2 or 3 weeks. Furthermore recurrences are apparently checked although the drug has not been used long enough to be sure of this. The drug is not yet on the market but it can be obtained from Smith, Kline and French by your doctor.

Q—My doctor says I have nasal polyps which must be removed. Is this a serious operation?

A—Although all operations are serious, the removal of nasal polyps is relatively simple. Since such polyps are often caused by an allergy you should have this angle investigated. If allergy is the cause and it is not treated, the polyps will return after they have been removed. If they are interfering with your breathing they should, of course, be cut out.

Q—Will the prolonged use of nicotine acid have any side effects? It was prescribed along with meclizine (Bonine) for dizzy spells.

A—Small or moderate doses of nicotine acid, which is a vitamin, may be taken for prolonged periods without harmful side effects. Very large doses may cause flushing of the face and neck, but even this is not harmful and quickly passes.

Q—My 17-year-old daughter has severe cramps with the onset of each menstrual period. These cramps may make her vomit. Nothing she has ever tried has helped her. What would you suggest?

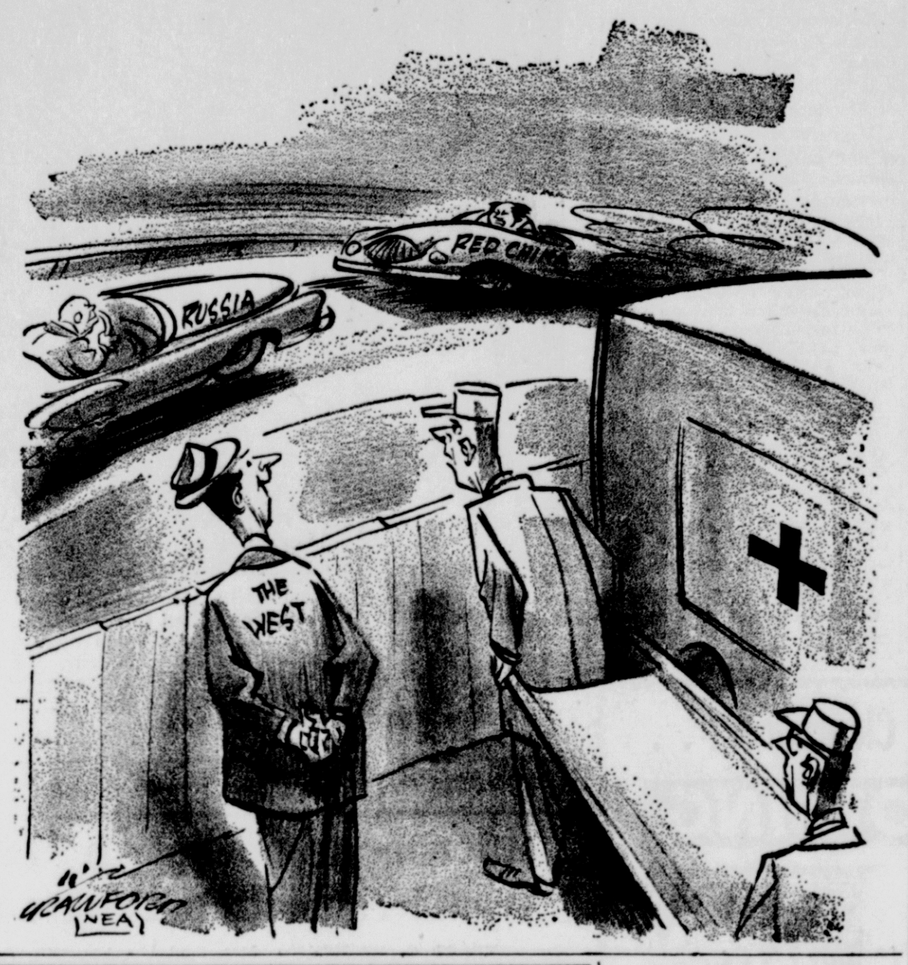

Although menstrual cramps are common they are not usually as severe as those you describe. Since the usual pain killers have not given any relief, your doctor may want to have your daughter try dienestrol (Synestrol) daily in the interval between her periods. The dose must be carefully adjusted to meet your daughter's individual need. This drug has relieved 90 per cent of those on whom it has been tried.

If this does not work, emotional factors must be sought because some girls build up enormous tensions over this natural function. If this is the cause, the sympathetic guidance of a doctor trained in treating emotional difficulties should be consulted. In extreme cases the sympathetic nerve roots coming out of the lower segments of the spinal cord have been cut, but such extreme measures are rarely advisable.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

"It Will Be a Shame If All You Need Is a Bandaid"

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The best slogan which the Republicans have come up with yet to sweep them back into the White House in 1964 is: MAKE AMERICA SAFE FOR MRS. MURPHY.

Such a theme might even split the Irish vote — in America, that is — away from the Kennedys.

This Mrs. Murphy, of course, is an imaginary character in no way related to the Mrs. Margaretta (Happy) Murphy who in real life married Gov. Nelson Rockefeller after both divorced their former mates.

There would be a double-take on the slogan if Rocky got the GOP nomination.

IT WAS SEN. GEORGE AIKEN of Vermont — as good a rock-ribbed Republican as ever was — who dreamed up the modern mythical Mrs. Murphy as a symbol. He introduced her during debate on minimum wage law regulations. Small shopkeepers — "like Mrs. Murphy" — who ran what used to be known as "Mom and Pop" stores should be exempted from all these government laws affecting wages and hours, said Sen. Aiken.

Mrs. Murphy got back into the limelight as hearings began on the civil rights proposal to ban discrimination in all business places catering to the public. This time she was introduced by the GOP National Committee chairman, Rep William E. Miller of New York, as a widow woman who owned her own home in a resort area and rented her spare rooms to tourists.

Would she be required to offer her rooms on an integrated basis?

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, lead-off witness for the administration's civil rights program, thought that one over carefully and then said she would not be covered.

House Judiciary Committee chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., presiding over the hearing added that Mrs. Murphy was insignificant and not worth bothering about.

Rep. Miller was still unconvinced, with justification.

JUST HOW MUCH FREEDOM and independence individuals will have to do what they please in the future as America becomes more and more crowded with people is a growing problem.

Government is stepping in to regulate more and more phases of what used to be considered private life and private business. Big Brother is watching you, Little Brother too, and the guv'ment'll get you if you don't watch out.

Business complains about this and all the keeping of records it entails. Then business comes to Washington and in the name of supporting a "Fair Trade Law" backs a bill that would require Mrs. Murphy to sell brand name goods at factory fixed prices, in complete contradiction of a free market.

THE NEW REGULATIONS which Internal Revenue Service has just issued on reporting business travel and entertainment expenses as income tax deductions offer another example. They affect the Mr. Murphys more than the Mrs. Murphys. They hit not only big shot executive types but also a lot of smaller fry who are salesmen and operators of their own businesses.

Internal Revenue Service has now tried to interpret a tough law intended to crack down on expense-account chiselers so as to give the Murphys with legitimate expenses a fair break.

But in reporting these expenses, the Murphys practically have to keep a diary of everything they do and how much it cost, as evidence of their deductions. If Mrs. Murphy goes along with Mr. Murphy on a business trip and her expenses for travel and entertainment can be legitimately charged off, records of that must be kept, too.

The good old days when the Mrs. Murphys who ran Mom and Pop establishments just as they pleased are going, going, and almost gone forever.

India is a republic in the British Commonwealth; it has 16 states and six territories.

Things to Do Before '64 Election Due in 16 Months

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON -- With the next Presidential election just 16 months away, there's something more important for the Administration in power to worry about than a slightly declining popularity poll at the moment. It's the rate at which grievances are accumulating and the extent to which they have already penetrated or will penetrate the electorate in the next several months.

Sometimes the disaffection is produced by direct interest of an economic nature. And sometimes it is the result of a disapproval on such broad questions as the handling of the Cuban problem. It is perhaps helpful to point out those grievances now so that they may, if possible, be overcome before it is too late.

Some of the present-day criticisms which are reflected to a varying degree in letters reaching many members of Congress and this writer might be summarized as follows:

1. Unemployment: The impact in certain industrial states affects various communities and could turn normally Democratic majorities into a shift of party.

2. Adverse business conditions: Many small businesses have had or are having hard sledding. Many of the economic surveys speak of large profits and expected improvement, but in politics such generalities do not wipe out the blues which prevail in specific industries. Despite the ups and downs of the steel industry, for instance, 100,000 unemployed steel workers have not gotten back the jobs they had a couple years ago. This is but another way of saying that the Administration has not been able to encourage job creation on a broad enough scale to take care of shifts in the economy. Unemployment figures today show particularly an unprecedented number of young persons of working age who can't find work.

The Farm Problem

3. Farmer Discontent: Already in some of the special elections to fill vacancies and in local contests, the opposition to the Democrats in rural areas, due to a fumbling of the farm problem, could mean a balance of power against the Administration not only in rural sections of the populous states but in the agricultural states of the Middle west and Far West.

4. Taxes: This a source of deep-seated antagonism throughout the nation. People resent the rising tax burden, particularly in the higher state and local taxes as well as Federal excise taxes and social security deductions from take-home pay. These have aroused much criticism. The Administration may expect to overcome some of this by the tax cuts due next year, but the outlook now is that the amount of the reduction will be insignificant and this will not ameliorate the feeling in any substantial way, especially since government spending continues unabated all along the line. What is perhaps more resented than any other one thing is the amount of taxpayers' money which is being used for "foreign aid."

Cuba Deal Rankles

5. Cuba: The record in dealing with Castro has alienated many of the voters who cast their ballots for the Democratic ticket in the last election. Certainly the people don't want war. But they somehow feel the Cuban situation has been bungled over since the "Bay of Pigs" fiasco.

6. Expense Accounts: This affects the transportation business, restaurants, hotels and motels, as well as retail businesses in metropolitan centers where conventions are held. The furor over the changes in expense-account regulations touches a vast group of salesmen, many of whom see nothing ahead but lawsuits and interminable conferences with internal Revenue agents on what constitutes a legitimate tax deduction. The expense-account problem is not of recent origin and Congress, rather than the Administration, is largely responsible for the confusion in the rules. But the voters will vent their anger on the Administration in power.

7. Civil Rights; It looked for a while as if the Administration were on the popular side of the argument—equal rights for all. But the President now is being bamed for mishandling the whole thing, especially in countenancing for several weeks the lawlessness of those who have deliberately used the street "demonstration" technique and thereby stirred up bitter feelings in all cities as well as in suburban areas, North and South.

Bitterness Aroused

This issue is growing in intensity. Mishandling from the start is blamed for the present movement of the Negro organizations which appears to have gotten out of hand. Even persons who have long been champions of equal rights are beginning to be worried. The fears engendered and bitter feelings aroused will grow considerably in the next several months. This will cause a big loss of Democratic votes in pivotal states with big electoral votes.

The coming election could be lost by the Administration not so much because of a shifting of voters to the Republican party but because of the protest of the stay-at-home Democrats. All together, the Administration has a political bear by the tail in civil rights. It hoped to win more Negro votes, though the Democrats in the last election had more than 80 per cent anyway, but the chances are that the loss in white Democratic votes now will far exceed any gains made by the Kennedy forces among the Negro voters.

The Administration will suffer heavy losses in the labor vote, some of which already is being alienated by arbitrary plans to hire Negroes in place of white workers. The business vote, including especially the non-factory or office-worker vote below the executice level, will be found lining up against the Administration, too. The discontetnt is becoming widespread, and bitter feelng already is manifest 16 months before the Presidential election of 1964.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

The Fourth of July arrived in Kingston and Ulster County in 1963 with the most glorious weather, sunny and in the upper 70's with soft Catskill Mountain breezes. The black-eyed Susans, daisys and wild tiger-lilies and other local flowers along the roadsides nodded in the breeze to those riding by. No one walks today, everyone rides so these colorful roadside Ulster County welcomers are passed by unnoticed, so it seems.

The city was very quiet in the afternoon, only the bells rang out at two in the afternoon to proclaim liberty as it was declared on July 4th of 1776. But liberty and freedom is like owning a property, it must be protected at all times, taxes must be paid on it etc. Years ago, when the colonists left Europe for religious freedom they had to keep right on fighting over here to hold on to it, and then stick together and protect themselves against various invaders including weather conditions. Laws were drawn up, and more laws and so it went and as the nation grew, changes had to be made. Time is the great teacher, to prove if laws are good or bad, if movements of people are for the better. What the future holds no one knows, what inventions will change our way of life, but we all need, good drinking water, free from harmful chemicals put there by nature or by law. We need fresh safe foods which are tasty and nourishing. We need good clean air, which Catskill Mountains are famous for, so let's fight pollution of air and water. We hope our homes will always be protected against all invaders, be their nature's elements or poorly man-made laws. We have acres and acres of land all about us here, over-looking our mountains and Hudson river, where folks can build and enjoy their own homesteads.

Back in Dublin, Ireland in 1808 John Philpot Curran said, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." The inscription on the Liberty Bell at Philadelphia is printed: "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof. Leviticus XXV." We take liberty so much for granted, "Liberty is the only thing you cannot have unless you are willing to give it to others." wrote William Allen White in 1940. Mme. Jeanne Roland wrote "O liberty! How many crimes are committed in thy name!"

The late president of the United States, Woodrow Wilson said in a speech in 1915: "I have always in my own thought summed up individual liberty, and business liberty, and every other kind of liberty, in the phrase that is common in the sporting world, "A free field and no favor."

No doubt most of the students have learned about Emma Lazarus who was born on July 22, 1849 and died on Nov. 19, 1887 in New York City. She was an American-Jewish poetess and translator of ancient Hebrew authors. She wrote the famous words: "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses, yearning to breathe free, The wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send, these, the homeless, tempest tossed, to me; I lift my lamp beside the golden door." This inscription is by Emma Lazarus on the Statue of Liberty, at our New York Harbor. Those arriving at our shore, either for the first time, or coming back home after a trip look for this famous statue as it appears before them in the horizon. It means many things to many people but most of all, the word liberty and freedom for all.

Local Guardsmen Are Attending Officers School

More than 600 members of the New York Army National Guard, including 10 from Kingston, are attending the summer phase of the Empire State Military Academy and the Noncommissioned Officer Candidate school at Camp Smith, Peekskill.

Major General A. C. O'Hara, chief of staff to the Governor and Commanding General of the New York Army National Guard, announced the sessions began on Saturday and will continue through July 20.

Trains for Commissioning

Brigadier General Joseph T. Willey, of headquarters, NYANG, Albany, stated the school trains selected members of the NYANG for commissioning as second lieutenants.

Attending the school from Kingston are: Sgt. John W. Marsh, HH & S 1st Bn. Artillery; Sgt. John W. Baer Jr., HH & S Battery; Sgt. William C. Ose, Btry A; Sgt. John F. Whitaker, Btry. B.

Those from Kingston who are attending the Noncommissioned Officers Academy are: Pfc Curtis L. North, HH & S (Headquarters and Headquarters Service) Battery 1st Bn. 156th Artillery; Pfc Richard A. Nace, HH & S Btry; Pfc Richard E. Smith, Btry. A., Pfc Roland E. Sagendorf, Btry A; Pfc William A. Tochterman, Btry B, and Pfc Thomas E. Merryweather, Btry B.

The course of instruction comprises two summer sessions of two weeks at Camp Smith supplemented by selected weekend training in branch schools located in Brooklyn, Troy, Syracuse and Buffalo during the winter months. The Non-commissioned Office Candidate School is conducted for the purpose of broadening the professional knowledge of potential non-commissioned officers to develop leadership techniques and qualities, General Willey said.

Qualified Officers

Instructors will be qualified officers of the New York Army National Guard who will teach the candidates the many phases of professional military knowledge.

Thirty-two United State Military Academy cadets from West Point will act as tactical officers during the session. A number of the West Point cadets are former members of the New York Army National Guard who won competitive appointments to the U. S. Military Academy.

Now in its 12th year of operation, the Empire State Military Academy has graduated and commissioned as second lieutenants more than 1300 New York Army National Guardsmen. Students attend the school instead of performng field training with their units. Qualified enlisted men of the New York Army National Guard may attend the Empire State Military Academy after they complete six months active duty training. They must also pass an aptitude test and be within the ages of 19 and 27.

SAYS YOUTH 'UNSHACKLED'—Roy Wilkins, executive secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said in an interview the NAACP youth corps "will no longer be restrained or hampered by conservative policies of some local NAACP chapters." 125 Attend 1st Tri-Mount Week

Camp Tri-Mount, operated by the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America, opened its 1963 summer camping season June 30 with 125 boys registered for the first week. Troops camping during the first week were: Troop 9 of Kingston, in Delaware Campsite; Troop 10 of Kingston, in the provisional campsite, Cayuga; Troop 16 of Stone Ridge, in Seneca Campsite and Troop 45 of Coxsackie, in Mohawk Campsite.

During the week, seven Scouts were inducted into the Order of the Arrow. These include: Ray Wells and Roger Wells, Troop 9, Kingston; Howard Hotaling, Troop 10, Kingston; Arnold Van Laer, Troop 16, Stone Ridge; Peter Pfeffer and Andy Lampman, Troop 45 Coxsackie.

Cayuga, the provisional campsite under Scoutmaster Clement Hulick, took many honors during the week. The honor patrol award went to The Sting-Rays from Cayuga. Cayuga Campsite also won top honors at the Saturday afternoon "Aqua Maneuvers." The Cayuga Campsite also won first place in the weekly softball tournament, but were finally defeated by the staff team, 23-11.

Troop 9, Kingston, under Scoutmasters William Daum and William Moser, captured first place in campsite inspections. This troop had the highest number of points, on daily totals for camp neatness and discipline.

As far as wildlife is concerned, the pet of the Nature Lodge is a baby raccoon, descriptively named "Gerausche" (German for noisy). Campers and staff both enjoy feeding Gerausche with a baby's bottle. Other wildlife on exhibit includes various snakes and turtles collected around camp.

On Sunday, July 7, Camp Director John Vliet of Catskill, and four staff members, represented Tri-Mount at the annual Patriot's Sunday service at All Souls' Chapel, Onteora. Two staff members, George Loucks and Pete Wells, participated in the service as color guards.

Everyone at Tri-Mount is pleased with the spacious new dining hall which is now in use at the camp, thanks to the efforts of many volunteer workers.

All-Star Game Is Knotted, 1-1

Both sides scored early as the American and National league all-stars were knotted, 1-1, after two innings of the 34th All-Star game today in Cleveland.

The National league tallied its run in the second inning off starter Ken McBride on two walks and a hit. Jim O'Toole of the Cincinnati Reds were rapped for a run in the last half of the second to tie the score.

The American holds on overall 17-15-1 edge since the All-Star game inception in 1933 but the National has won five of the last eight with one game ending in a tie.

A crowd of approximately 40,000 was in the stands at game time.

Mishaps Tie-Up Traffic Near IBM

During the height of IBM traffic on Route 9W and Boice's Lane this morning two accidents tied up the route for some time while troopers worked to get cars moving again.

In one of the accidents there was slight injury to one of the persons involved.

At 7:45 a. m. Valentine Mehling, 59, of Route 3, Saugerties, was proceeding south on 9W when a car operated by Frank Rival, 41, of 151 Three Mile Road, Glastonbury, Conn., attempted to make a left turn as he drove north. His car struck the left front of the Mehling car. No one was injured but traffic was tied up for some time.

The second accident occurred at 8 a. m. on Route 9W near Boice's Lane when a car operated by Lucille A. Bonomo, 42, of 145 Foxhall Avenue, Kingston, and a car of George McArdle Jr., 36, of 9 Purvis Street were involved in an accident. Lucille A. Bonomo received an injury to her right knee.

Manhandling Cited

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States "has made representations" to South Viet Nam against the manhandling of American newsmen by Vietnamese secret police, Ambassador Frederick E. Nolting Jr., said today.

Nolting said the representations were made orally rather than as a formal written protest by the government.

The newsmen had protested to the U. S. Embassy in Saigon Sunday and cabled President Kennedy after the Vietnamese secret police knocked down and kicked a Western correspondent and smashed two cameras.

Wilmington Man To Be Sentenced For Manslaughter

ELIZABETHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A 54-year-old handyman who had been charged with first-degree murder has entered a plea of guilty to a reduced charge of first-degree manslaughter.

Gilbert E. Hickok, of nearby Wilmington, appeared in Essex County Court Monday before Judge Roger Daniels. Daniels scheduled sentencing for July 15.

The maximum sentence on the reduced charge is 20 years.

Hickok shot Scott M. McKee, 17, also of Wilmington, last October after an argument at Hickok's home over the distances between various communities in the area.

The indictment against Hickok charged premeditated murder. His trial was to have opened Monday.

Because of Hickok's plea, the state's new law abolishing the automatic death penalty for premeditated murder will not figure in his sentence.

A combed rye or wheat straw thatched roof may last as long as 60 years.

Mrs. Gallagher said the merger would produce annual savings of about $5,000, and $15,000 when the Newburgh-Beacon Bridge is completed.

Engine Trouble Forces Landing Of Mohawk Liner

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—An oil leak was listed today as the source of engine trouble that forced a mohawk airliner carrying 46 passengers to make an emergency landing Monday at the Warren County Airport, near here.

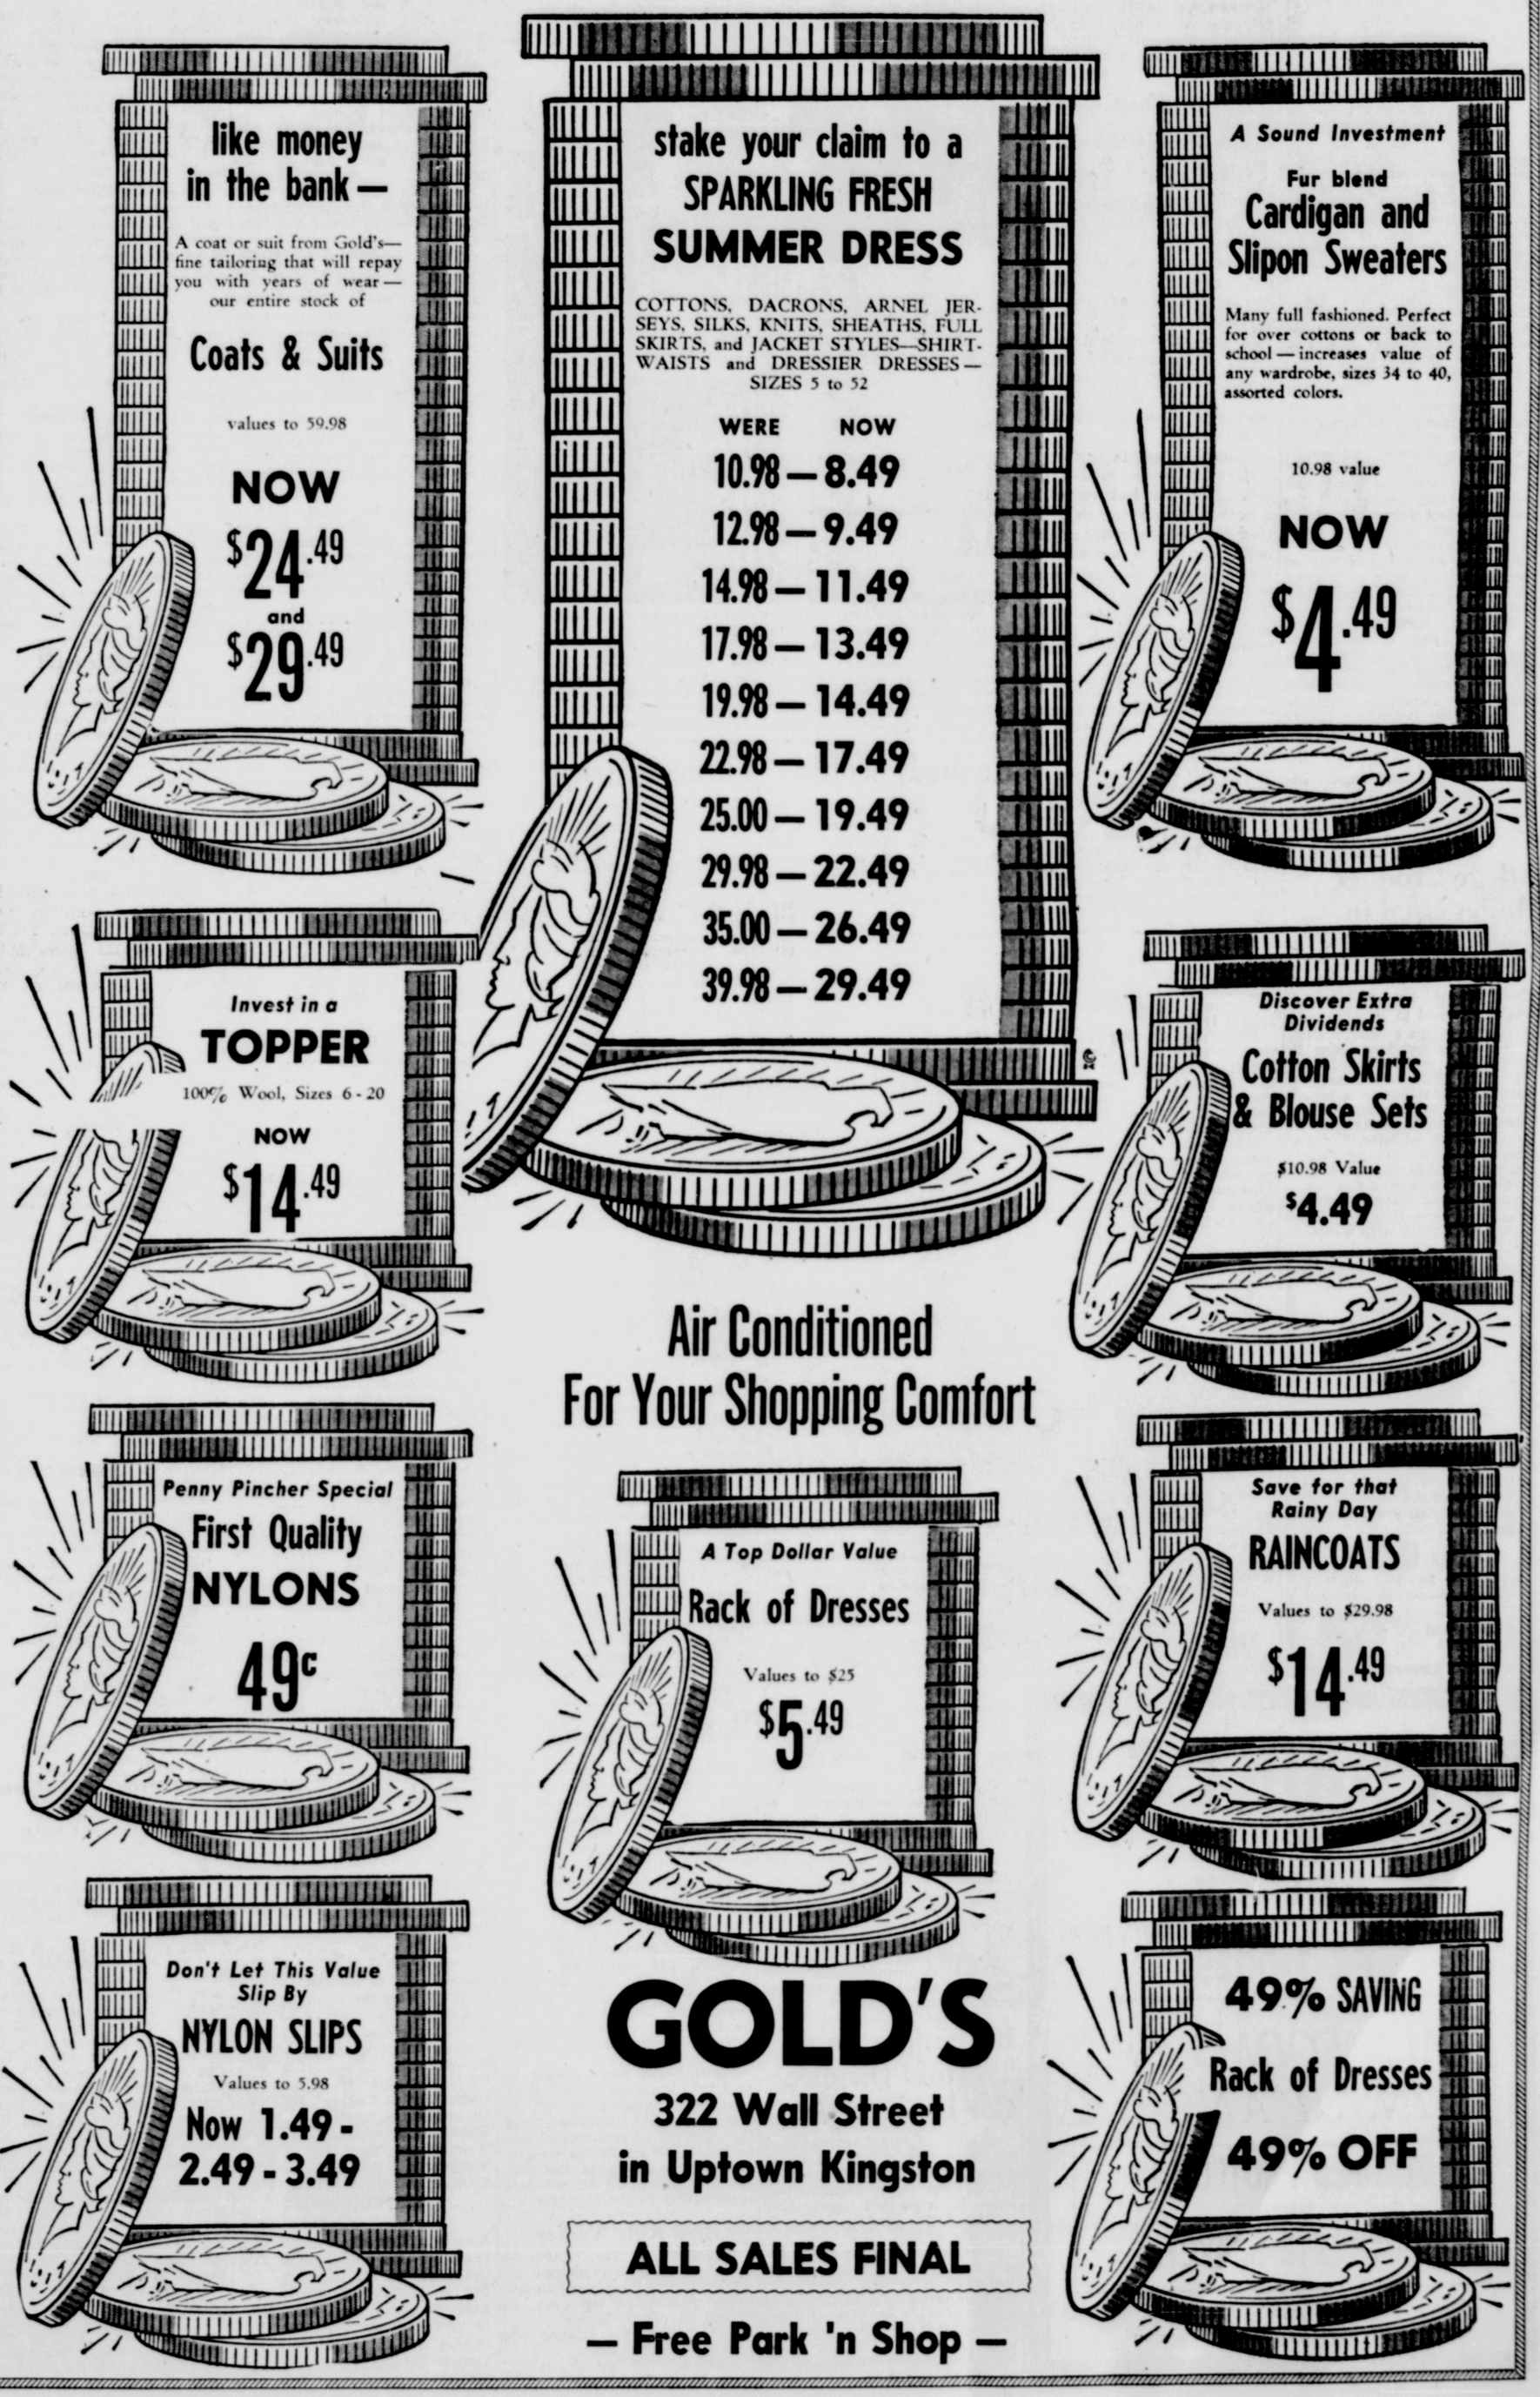

No one was injured when the pilot, Capt. Irving Galle, 38, of Forrest Hills, landed the plane with one of its two engines shut off.

The Convair 440, Flight No. 426, was bound from Burlington, Vt., to New York City.

A Mohawk spokesman said the crippled plane had developed an oil leak and the pilot shut off the engine. Arrangements were made for a plane from Boston to deliver the passengers at Idlewild Airport.

CORE Calls Off Maryland March

Baltimore (AP)—Leaders of the integration movement in Maryland called off today a demonstration planned for late afternoon at Gwynn Oak amusement park.

Clergymen and leaders of the Congress of Racial Equality decided to postpone the march on the privately owned, segregated park "as an action of good faith."

They announced the postponement at a meeting called after the Baltimore County Council had voted unanimously Monday night to establish a human relations council.

380 Arrested Earlier

Spiro T. Agnew, Baltimore County executive, was notified of the posponement. Meeting with the CORE leaders were members of the interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, an organization of Negro clergymen.

A Presbyterian minister had been scheduled to lead the march on the amusement park on Baltimore's northwestern outskirts, where some 380 persons were arrested in two previous massive demonstrations.

In Cambridge, about 85 miles southeast and across Chesapeake Bay, Negro leaders sought to rally support for another march to protest segregation in restaurants and other public accommodations.

About 125 Negroes and whites participated in such a demonstration there Monday night after the noontime withdrawal of National Guard units which had kept peace in the racially tense community since June 14.

Unlike the gunfire and storeburnings which marked similar marches in Cambridge before the arrival of guardsmen, there was no violence Monday night.

An afternoon sit-in attempt by 11 demonstrators was broken up by a restaurant proprietor who pushed members of the group out of his place and locked the door.

When the demonstrators—eight Negroes and three whites—knelt in front of the restaurant and sang integraton songs, the proprietor, Robert Fehsenfeld, cuffed a young white man in the group in the right side of the face.

He then broke a raw egg on the man's head, smeared it about his face, and threw a milkshake container of water on him.

The man, Edward Dickerson, 25, of Cambridge, continued singing the theme of the integrationists, "We Shall Overcome."

A few white spectators witnessed the Cambridge nighttime march on the Dorchester County courthouse without major incident.

The marchers prayed and sang there for about five minutes before returning to their church headquarters in the Negro section of town as 25 steel-helmeted state police escorted them.

Allege Croquet Mallet Used in Greene Assault

A Greene County man, who allegedly devoted part of his July Fourth weekend to working over a neighbor with a croquet mallet, is awaiting grand jury action in Greene County jail.

Herman Meier, 44, Coxsackie, waived examination on a second degree assault charge before Town of Catskill Justice of the Peace Arthur Webster. The victim, who is in Greene County Memorial Hospital, Catskill, is Floyd Mattice, also of Coxsackie, who sustained concussions and multiple bruises. It is alleged the assault took place with a croquet mallet.

Mayor Schwenk pointed out that Lyons, who had worked as a biochemist, and later as supervisor of the biochemistry department, with the laboratory, first joined the staff as a technician in May 1936, and by his diligence progressed through the various steps to the position of department head which he held until his death.

The Mayor stated that Lyons had been the first director of student training at the Laboratory with full responsibility for the Laboratory's School of Medical Technology. Lyons' military service was also commented upon by Mayor Schwenk, who stated that he was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Army Sanitary Corps in 1942 and served with distinction in the European Theatre of Operations with the 136th Station Hospital. He was promoted to captain in 1945 and to major in the Army Medical Service Corps Reserve in 1961.

At the ceremony Mayor Schwenk formally dedicated the plaque. He also presented a scroll to Lyons' widow, Mrs. Ann Shields Lyons.

lic welfare to prevent public distress" if the need is certified by the President. They said their wages under such circumstances would go to a charitable organization.

James J. Reynolds, Asssistant Secretary of Labor and the government's key mediator in the dispute, said today's meeting was called to impress on the group "the seriousness of the situation and to get from them one last expression before any legislative action is taken."

Reynolds and Wirtz also were invited to the meeting in the President's office.

As the leaders were summoned to the session, two large questions loomed:

1. If legislation is sought, for what will the administration ask?

2. Can action be taken in time — legislative or otherwise — to avert a strike?

On the first question, no one in an official capacity would venture an opinion—Wirtz, Reynolds, or Pierre Salinger, the President's press secretary.

One informed congressional source, however, asserted that if any legislation is sought it would be designed to deal solely with the railroad crisis.

Speculation in general continued to center on the possibility of compulsory arbitration, seizure of railroads, or some combination of the two.

On the question of whether a strike can be averted at this late date, prospects, legislatively at least, were not bright.

The most hopeful note on this score came from Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., who said Capitol Hill "can move pretty darn fast" to meet an emergency. However, even he conceded it would take the Senate about a week to complete hearings on any railroad legislation.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said a railroad strike lasting 30 to 60 days would be "most serious" because it would hamper exports more than imports. Future business could be lost also, he said, if overseas customers became accustomed to buying elsewhere.

The Post Office Department began preparing for the worst by issuing a warning of curtailed service in the event of a rail strike.

Noting that the railroads still are the chief carrier of most domestic mail, the department said that first class mail would be moved by substitute transportation as much as possible.

All other mail would be restricted, the department said, and would go no farther than 150 miles from its point of origin.

Chinese Absent

the Soviet-Chinese relations, disregarding the dangerous consequences of this policy."

The statement added that despite "such unfriendly actions," the Russians will do everything possible "not to deepen the existing differences" with the Chinese. This clearly indicated that the Russians do not intend to suspend the talks with the Chinese in the Lenin Hills villa overlooking Moscow.

No Details on Talk

No news leaked out of these talks between teams headed by Mikhail Suslov, top Soviet ideological expert, and Teng Hsiao-ping, his Chinese counterpart. Western observers have been convinced since before the talks started that they would produce no significant agreement.

Spaak refused to give details of his talks with Khrushchev in Kiev, 500 miles away.

The Belgian statesman, a former secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, said "it was a very good talk." Returning to Moscow, he described the meeting as "warm and friendly."

Television films of the meeting showed Spaak and Khrushchev laughing and gesturing in the garden of the premier's villa. Tass, the Soviet news agency, said the meeting was "marked by an atmosphere of sincerity and mutual understanding.

Khrushchev did not accompany Spaaak to Moscow and there was no indication when he would return from Kiev.

Although Spaak predicted an improvement in East-West relations, a Soviet commentator kept up the cold war dialogue. Speaking over Moscow radio, Valentin Zorin accused the United States of trying to spoil the atmosphere for the U.S.-British-Soviet nuclear test ban talks opening in Moscow Monday.

president of First Federal Savings and Loan Association said that "this demonstration of the ability of the uptown business community to pull together towards a common goal gves me confidence that Uptown Kingston has a tremendous potential for growth and expansion."

Appreciates Support

Svirsky thanked the six area financial institutions for their support, and noted that "with their leadership, I'm confident that every business and professional man who earns his livlihood within the boundaries of uptown Kingston will get behind this program.

"Within the next week," he said, "the Kingston Uptown Business Men's Association will be 100 per cent subscribed, and then will ask all professional men in the uptown business area to support the goals of the program by accepting an associate membership in the organization.

NEW YORK (AP)—Rails, motors and steels advanced as the stock market staged a general recovery early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Hope that President Kennedy could avert a nationwide railway strike threatened for Thursday accompanied a fairly widespread upward move.

Gains were mostly fractional, some going to a point or so among key stocks.

Some of the higherpriced "glamour" issues won back several points of recent losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 to 271.9 with industrials up .8, rails up .8, and utilities up .5.

The rails recovered about a third of their steep losses taken Monday.

Chrysler snapped back well over a point from Monday's 2⅜-point fall. Most other major automakers gained fractions.

IBM rebounded 5 points and Xerox did a shade better. Polaroid gained more than 3, U.S. Smelting 2.

Up more than a point were Western Union, Liggett & Myers, Texaco, Eastman Kodak and Kennecott.

Airlines, tobaccos, drugs, chemicals and electronic equipments also moved moderately higher. Electronics were mixed. Aerospace issues showed very little change, although Douglas gained a fraction. Nonferrous metals unchanged to slightly higher. Utilities moved up slightly, American Telephone adding close to a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.86 at 714.52.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange moved irregularly higher.

West Hurley Auto Rams Tree; Driver Injured

A resident of West Hurley who said he fell asleep at the wheel of his car at 12:20 a. m. today was brought to Benedictine Hospital by the West Hurley First Aid and Rescue Squad for injuries which he sustained when his car left the road and struck a tree on the left of Route 28.

State Troopers John McNichol and William Ruth investigated the accident and reported Malcolm Moore DeMare, 18, of Rt. 2, Box B-29, West Hurley had fallen asleep as he drove along Route 28 about a half mile west of its junction with Route 28-A. The extent of his injuries was not determined.

Hit-Run Charge

ther. We were in the lumber business together. I was determined to find those men," said Welby Lee Monday night after the arrest in Indianapolis on second-degree murder charges of Grover Jones, 54, a handyman.

Witnesses said two men were in the car. Lee said, "We know who the other man was. He will be taken into custody later.

Covers 70,000 Miles

"I would estimate I spent a total of four years' time in the search," said Lee, 50. "I traveled 70,000 miles, mostly in Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio and Tennessee, talking to people—all kinds of people.

"I hit lots of dead ends, but never thought of giving up. Then, in January 1962, we hit the right trail. An in-law of Jones put us on it. For 18 months I gathered evidence.

153 Pages of Evidence

"I walked into the authorities' office in Clay County, Tenn., and gave them a book with 153 pages of evidence. I realized that after 18 years, a half job just wouldn't do."

Indianapolis police said Tennessee authorities traced the sale of the bumper guard to Jones.

Lee said a grand jury in the Tennessee county—just across the line from this southern Kentucky town—indicted Jones last month.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Don't Ask More Than Market Can Deliver

Q) "I am 63 years old and, God willing, I will retire at 65 or sooner. I have $40,000 in savings banks and would like to invest one-third in stocks to protect myself against inflation. I would like a 4 per cent return on my investment and the ability to get my money out any time, if I should need it." A.W.

A) If you will forgive my saying so, I think you're asking more of the stock market than it can deliver.

For protection against inflation, you should own stocks that can appreciate in price faster than any future rise in the cost of living. But true growth situations that would meet your objective offer a very modest yield.

Stocks fluctuate in price, and though you can get your money out, there is no guarantee that you will get it back in full, if you sell.

With all this understood—and if you can afford a lower yield—I suggest American Express, Standard Brands, and Virginia Electric.

Q) "You rarely mention preferred stocks. Do you disapprove of them? Could you list any for me that yield 5 per cent, together with quality ratings?" B.S.

A) I have not mentioned preferred stocks for some time, largely because I consider them rather unattractive for most investors at present high levels.

A preferred stock is neither fish nor fowl. It lacks the strength and security of a bond which, if defaulted, can put the issuer into bankruptcy.

Since its rate in most cases is absolutely fixed, it offers little or no chance of appreciation at high levels that have existed in recent years.

I have a long list of preferred stock quotations in front of me. The highest yield is on U.S. Rubber 8 per cent non-callable and noncumulative preferred rated BBB which yields 4.85 per cent.

Preferred prices hinge largely on money rates, and if these harden—as seems possible—we may find available a more attractive yield level for this group.

Mitchell Resigns

the nation. But it was endorsed by many, including such conservative leaders as Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

In litigation instituted by state officials, the State Supreme Court invalidated 12 of the 13 points in Mitchell's welfare code.

Mitchell, 41, was acquitted last April by a jury in New York City on bribery - conspiracy charges growing out of a Newburgh rezoning deal.

Mitchell suspended himself after he and a New Jersey real estate man were indicted on the charges last December. Mitchell returned to his post after he and the real estate man were acquitted. Mitchell, a Republican, contended he was the victim of political opponents.

After the acquittal, Mitchell's resignation was demanded by a number of persons, including Mayor William Ryan, only Democrat in the City Council.

Effective Oct. 12

Mitchell's letter Monday asked that the City Council make his resignation effective Oct. 12. He asked 30 days leave beginning Sept. 9.

His city salary is $15,700 a year. He said he is not free to discuss his salary with the John Birch Society.

"I love this city and would have liked to have spent the rest of my life here serving the City Council and its people.

"However, I must move on. Time and tide wait for no man. I leave this city with great personal regrets."

Rocky Stresses

Supreme Court in cases involving states' powers.

Rocky's Proposals

Rockefeller called on the Governors Conference to resolve that "the governors of each of the states take the leadership with the people and legislature of their respective states in opposing these three proposed constitutional amendments and, in so doing, in preserving the strength, the flexibility and responsiveness of our extraordinarily successful federal system."

On Sunday, Rockefeller announced details of a resolution to put the conference on record in favor of extending civil rights through such steps as barring discrimination in places of public accommodation.

President Kennedy has called for federal legislation to outlaw discrimination in such places — shops, theaters, restaurants and other businesses open to the public.

Charges Publicity Stunt

Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas, a Democrat, charged Monday that Rockefeller was engaging in a publicity stunt with the civil rights proposal.

Rockefeller will make public Wednesday the balance of 11 resolutions he has submitted to the conference. They cover a wide range of topics, including medicare and transportation.

All resolutions will be screened by an 11-member committee, which will decide which to put on the agenda.

A member may appeal to the conference from an action by the resolutions committee. At present, a two-thirds vote is sufficient to overrule that committee.

But the initial business of the conventon will include a proposal to require unanimous consent to take up a resolution rejected in the committee. Rockefeller plans to fight against the change.

Congress . . .

the invitations he sent out, but, emphasized that not only Southerners will appear in opposition. They will be about evenly divided between state officials and private citizens, Thurmond said.

About 300 women are expected to attend the White House session with Kennedy in late afternoon. He has held similar sessions with educators, businessmen, labor leaders, civil rights spokesmen, clergymen and lawyers. Thursday afternoon he will meet with a group of top business executives.

Dictator 'Pals' Prove Anything But to U. S.

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has had tough luck with some of its dictator friends.

There's President Ngo Dinh Diem of South Viet Nam.

When the French gave up fighting the Communists in 1954, the United States, which had been helping the French, then started helping Diem. It's been helping him ever since. It's poured more than $2 billion into Viet Nam.

Victory Long Way Off

It has also sent in 12,000 military men as advisers in his war against the Communist guerrillas. A number of these American servicemen have been killed. The cost of this military aid is running around $500 million a year.

Diem still hasn't rallied the Vietnamese people to his support in any wholehearted way.

And defeat of the Communists doesn't look any closer than it did nine years ago after the French quit.

Then there was Fulgencio Batista.

He was the Cuban dictator from 1952 until Jan. 1, 1959, when Fidel Castro drove him out and set up a brand new dictatorship. The American-Batista relationship had been profitable from a money standpoint.

During his regime trade between Cuba and the United States ran more than $400 million a year.

Castro had begun the war on Batista in 1956. From then until a few months before Batista fled, the United States shipped him arms. When Castro later complained about this, the State Department had an explanation:

The arms were meant for hemisphere defense but Batista misused them.

Then there is Dr. Francois Duvalier of Haiti, the 54-year-old doctor and expert on voodooism.

He got himself elected to a six-year term in 1957 and at once became a dictator with an army of 5,000 men. He distrusted the army so much he set up his own secret army, or secret police, numbering 10,000.

Then Duvalier arranged to succeed himself for another six years, starting May 15. This caused so much commotion it looked for a while as if his enemies might throw him out. Relations between the two countries grew miserable.

Duvalier stayed. And when his personal physician, Dr. Jacques Fourcand, in a public speech denounced the United States as a "Democracy of sluts," Duvalier pumped his hand to congratulate him.

Took a Long Time

But the United States resumed diplomatic relations which had been cut off.

And there was the unforgettable Rafael Trujillo, dictator of the Dominican Republic for 31 years until he was assassinated May 30, 1961. The American relationship with him got this country perhaps its worst criticism in Latin America.

The United States, along with other hemisphere countries, broke off relations with him in 1960 but that was pretty late to discover he wasn't a nice man.

Ottawa Official Retreats From Sales Tax Stand

OTTAWA (AP)—Finance Minister Walter Gordon has knocked a $115 million hole in his June 13 budget with a major retreat from its controversial sales tax on building materials and production machinery.

In a statement in the House of Commons Monday night that brought opposition jeers of "chicken," Gordon watered down the 11 per cent tax to an immediate 4 per cent. He said it would increase in two stages to 11 per cent by Jan. 1, 1965.

He also exempted schools and universities completely from the tax on building materials and opened a big loophole in his original plan to push foreign-controled companies into selling a minimum 25 per cent ownership to Canadians.

It was the second major surgery performed by the freshman finance minister on his maiden budget speech. On June 19, he lopped off the budget's plan for a 30 per cent tax on large stock sales to foreign investors, aimed at halting U.S. takeovers of Canadian firms.

Profumo Scandal Figure

Mandy Certain Benefactor Dead

LONDON (AP)—Call-girl Mandy Rice Davies today said rumors that a shadowy figure in the Profumo scandal faked death and is still alive are "unfortunately" false.

Peter Rachman, benefactor of Mandy and Christine Keeler, reportedly died last fall shortly before the Keeler-Profumo scandal began coming to light. But Ben Parkin, a Laborite member of Parliament, said Monday night Rachman may not be dead.

"It would be a very easy thing to switch bodies... A cremation and a stateless man and that is the end ... Very easy just 10 days before all hell broke loose," he told Commons.

Rachman, who owned a string of basement clubs and call girl houses in London's West End, reportedly died of a coronary thrombosis. But rumors have circulated in Fleet Street, London's newspaper row, that it was Rachman's brother who died.

"Peter Rachman, a man I loved dearly, is indisputably dead, unfortunately," 18-year-old Mandy said.

"I've heard of these rumors about bodies being switched and that he's been seen half way across the world from Paris to Bermuda, but it's not true.

"Two days before he died he collapsed in my arms. "I was going to Paris the next day. I was prepared to stay but he said he felt all right. Two days later he died. I returned at once."

Rachman's 28-year-old wife, Audrey, identified the body. She was not available for comment.

Mandy spent an hour Monday with Lord Denning, the judge who is investigating the security side of former war minister John Profumo's affair with Christine, who at the same time was the mistress of a Soviet diplomat.

"Lord Denning, was perfectly sweet," said Mandy. "He's quite the nicest judge I've ever met."

matter of Fact

The earliest ice skates were bone runners fastened on with thongs. There are casual references to skating throughout early Scandinavian, Icelandic and English literature. Among later writers, both John Evelyn and Samuel Pepys make mention in their respective diaries of watching the skaters in St. James's park, London on the same day, Dec. 1, 1662.

Syracuse GE Plant Served Notice of Possible Strike

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Officials of the General Electric Company's Syracuse plant were under notice today that a local electrical workers union is considering a strike against GE.

The disclosure came Monday even as preparations were under way for national contract talks between the company and the International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO.

John Stanley, business agent for IUE's Local 320, said a strike vote would soon be taken here because of what he called the company's "refusal to sign a satisfactory local supplement and its refusal to resolve the grievances of its employes."

Stanley told a newsman that his local, which has conducted a series of walkouts against GE, also might vote for a nationwide IUE strike against the company.

Reid L. Shaw, manager of employe and plant community relations for GE here, replied in a statement that "Mr. Stanley only wants to keep the pot boiling in order to strengthen his hand during the formal national negotiations."

Stanley said no date had been set for the strike vote. Meanwhile, he said, efforts will be made to work out the local differences "peacefully."

GE and IUE are scheduled to begin talks next month on a new three - year national agreement. The current contract expires Sept. 30.

GE says 6,000 production workers here are covered by the national contract. A total of 15,000 persons are employed in GE facilities at Syracuse.

Youth Is Facing Gas Chamber for Slaying of Skier

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Lee Bean faced death in the Nevada gas chamber after being convicted of first degree murder Monday in the April 5 dismemberment-slaying of Sonja McCaskie, 24, former Olympic skier.

The 18-year-old high school youth, described at his trial as a rejected, unloved boy, stared at the jury foreman, Joseph Dettling, as the death penalty recommendation was read.

Dist. Judge Grant L. Bowen set July 15 for sentencing. Dist. Atty. William Raggio said the judge must follow the jury's recommendation.

Defense attorney Harry Anderson said he probably will appeal, depending on whether Bean wants a chance to escape the gas chamber. He said the boy, son of an itinerant salesman, had made second attempt on his life in Washoe County jail last Tuesday. The first try, a wrist-cutting episode in May, was disclosed by a sheriff's deputy on the witness stand during the trial which began June 24.

The attorney never refuted Bean's admission that he strangled Miss McCaskie, a native of Elgin, Scotland, raped her and then dismembered her body. But through the testimony of a San Francisco psychiatrist Anderson sought to prove that Bean should be acquitted because, although rational in some areas, he did not know right from wrong in a sexual sense. Bean had pleaded innnocent.

Bean was caught eight days after the slaying after offficers traced a camera missing from Miss McCaskie's apartment to a pawn shop.

A divorcee and mother, Miss McCaskie skied for Great Britain in the 1960 Winter Olympics at nearby Squaw Valley, Calif., and on the British team in European competition the next vear. She was a secretary for a Reno meat packing firm and gave ski lessons on weekends at a resort near Reno.

The holiday total compares with an average of 100 traffic fatalities per day during the first five months this year.

War Hero in Hospital For Checkup, Tests

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Sgt. Alvin C. York, famed World War I Medal of Honor winner, rested comfortably today at Veterans Hospital here where he was admitted Monday for a checkup and observation.

A hospital spokesman said York, 75, was "not seriously ill." York, in ill health since suffering a light stroke in 1949, has been bedfast in recent years at his rural home in Pall Mall, Tenn.

Respiratory and heart ailments hospitalized York here for several days during the Easter holiday.

York was decorated in 1918 after he killed 25 German soldiers and captured 132 prisoners in a single day.

Albany UHF 41 Channel Going Off Air August 1

UHF Television Station Channel 41, which has duplicated the programs of Channel 10 since 1957, will go off the air effective Thursday, Aug. 1, it was announced today by Daniel B. Burke, vice-president of Capital Cities Broadcasting Corp., and general manager of WTEN, Channel 10.

"As a result of the recent relocation of the Channel 10 transmitter tower," Burke said, "the need for UHF Channel 41 as a satellite to Channel 10 no longer exists."

Channel 41 was kept on the air to service some residents of Albany and Troy who could not achieve adequate reception from the old Channel 10 transmitting tower.

The new Channel 10 tower, near Thacher Park in the Helderberg Mountains, is now providing service to the area which, previously, needed the Channel 41 facility.

All the Pain Over 'Cleopatra' Is Gone: Shamroy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Making a movie is like having an operation," says ace cinematographer Leon Shamroy. "Eight weeks after it's over, you forget about all the pain it involved."

Crusty, straight-talking Shamroy was enjoying a rare rest at his Hollywood Hills home. He mused about the biggest operation of his long, award-filled career—"Cleopatra." It was also one of the most painful.

"But that's all past," he philosophized, "and now the result is up there on the screen, like it or not. Personally I liked it.

I think it's a good movie. Photographically it's one of the best I have done. I would rank it with 'Leave Her to Heaven' and 'Forever Amber' among my best work."

Shamroy admitted that "Cleopatra" was made the hard way. "They did everything wrong," he grouse. "The Italians shoot about April to October. That's the only time you get good weather. So why did we start our outdoor stuff in October? After a week and a half, I told 'em, 'This is stupid; let's move indoors.'

"But the studios over there are not equipped for big indoor shooting. Sets like the throne room were built here and sent over and they were too big to fit the stages. There was never enough power or equipment. We had to send all over Europe to get enough generators and lambs.

"Besides which, we didn't have a script. Joe Mankiewicz was writing it as he went along they wouldn't give him time to prepare."

Shamroy, who isn't easily swayed, came out of the experience a fan of Elizabeth Taylor's.

"You can say what you want about her, I still think she's the only really exciting star we've had since Carole Lombard," he remarked.

Artificial Valve Keeps Infant Alive

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP)—A clicking in the chest of her baby daughter is the sound of life for Mrs. Albert Mazzari.

The noise comes from an artificial valve built into the baby's heart June 18 to correct a defect.

Theresa Mazzari, 11-months-old, came home from a New York City hospital Monday. "When it is quiet in the room," said her mother, "I can hear a click coming from inside Theresa."

Dr. Dennison Young, head of the Montefiore Hospital child heart clinic, said Theresa is believed to be the first infant to have an artificial valve in the heart.

Chain Reaction Crash

A four-car chain reaction accident at the Mid-Hudson bridge approach Monday morning caused injury to four persons. A car operated by Frank Welch, 37, of Box 166, Route 5, Kingston, stopped. Three following cars collided. They were operated by John Keeley, 36, of Brigantine, N. J.; William Bate, 41, Rt. 3, Kingston, who received a laceration of the lip and knee; and Roseann M. Salerno, 18, Highland, who received a laceration of the lip and chin. The injured said they would seek aid from their own physician. Trooper Robert Anderson investigated.

Why We Say--

PLENTY MONEY: We may refer to someone with an abundance of money as being "well heeled." The allusion is to cock fighting where metal heels were attached to the birds' heels to make them more deadly.

You can't hear it, or feel it, or smell it. It's certainly out of the way and probably out of sight, too. It just goes on year in and year out, giving you dependable, trouble-free service, all you need and then some, and cheaper than ever before. It's the safest and the cleanest. Social Security Ruling Brings On Repeat Weddings

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP)—Several hundred couples who thought they were married in Arkansas are finding out they aren't.

For at least 11 of them, the solution is simple: get married.

Four couples will tie the knot Saturday night at Benton. Seven others will have a mass wedding Sunday at Star City.

In April, the Social Security Administration announced that it would not pay benefits to wives or widows who were not legally married. It pointed out that a 1941 Arkansas law said a marriage was null and void if the bridegroom was less than 18 years old or the bride was younger than 16.

Since the announcement many licenses and birth certificates have been checked by worried couples.

James R. Merryman, claims supervisor for the Little Rock Social Security Administration office, said his office had received hundreds of telephone calls and letters.

"Not just from Arkansas," he said, "but all over from people who got married in Arkansas and then moved to another state."

He said letters had come from Texas, California, Missouri and many other states.

Several couples have had second ceremonies.

Rochester Town Planners Meet

A meeting of the Planning Board of the Town of Rochester was held in the Accord Fire Hall last week with the following members present: Edward C. Carle, Nate Friedman, Samuel Reavin, John W. Scribano and Winston VanKleeck. Also present were the following members of the Town Board: Richard W. Lawrence, Joseph Lee, Morris Sims, Abram Smith and A. Richard Terwilliger, Supervisor.

Scribano, chairman, told those assembled of open meetings he had attended on zoning in the Town of Marbletown, in the High Falls area and also of a recent Kerhonkson Chamber of Commerce meeting he had attended. Terwilliger spoke on the proposed Ulster County Planning Board and mentioned that it was the only county in the Central Hudson area without such a board. He also pointed out that it was easier for the state to work with sections that are tied together geographically. The Planning Board members voted in favor of a board on the county level, with two members abstaining from voting, and the other three in favor of it.

Terwilliger also spoke on the proposed State Park in the Woodstock area and mentioned that he was in favor of it, although a park closer to this area would be preferable from the area's point of view.

Scribano said that the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company had set up an industrial department to assist Planning Boards in their area, under the supervision of J. W. Beal, and that Beal had given him helpful literature which he displayed.

Sims brought up the subject of the revised town map and mentioned that old roads would be taken off, new ones put on and names of current property owners shown. He said that there was still time for interested property owners to submit names for roads, and that an open meeting woud be held before the map was finished so that Town of Rochester residents would have the opportunity to do so.

A discussion on rising school taxes took place. VanKleeck said that eight years of schooling used to be considered adequate but now we have added four years of high school and are agitating for still higher education and getting a Community College in Ulster County. It was agreed that because of this, school taxes which had risen so sharply in recent years would continue to go up, rather than decline.

It was decided to suspend July and August meetings of the Planning Board.

Panama Flag Stays

PANAMA (AP) — Federal District Judge Guthrie F. Crowe has dismissed an American's suit to bar Panama's flag from flying alongside the Stars and Stripes in the Panama Canal Zone.

Lawyers for the American, Gerald A. Doyle, said they were considering an appeal. Doyle, an employe of the Panama Canal Co., contended that Panama's flag flying over the U.S.-controlled Canal Zone was against the best interests of the United States.

The United States and Panama agreed last October to display the flags side by side after years of protests and demonstrations by Panamanians.

QUESTION OF PROPRIETY

Q: My two brothers and I live together in the family house. Our parents are deceased. My oldest brother is 23, the other one is 21 and I am 19. A friend of my oldest brother has recently come to this town to find a job. As he could not find a suitable place to live that was within his means, my brother told him he could stay at our house if he paid room and board. We have a big house and can easily accommodate him and also this extra money would help to pay some of the bills. The question however, is this: As I am the only woman in the house, could there be any possible impropriety in this young man living here with us?

A: If your brother's friend is a person of good character and you and your brothers are known to be serious and non-frivolous and all behave with the utmost decorum, there would be no objection to his coming to live with you as a paying guest.

Spreading News of Son's Marriage

Q: Is it ever proper for the bridegroom's parents to send out wedding announcements of their son's marriage? My son was married quietly in another city and he tells me that the bride's family do not intend to send out wedding announcements. We have a great many friends and relatives whom we would like to notify of our son's marriage. Can we send out the announcements in our names to our relatives and friends?

A: I'm sorry but it would not be proper for you to send out formal announcements of your son's marriage. You can of course let your friends and relatives know of the marriage by word of mouth, or by writing letters.

A Wedding Check

Q: When sending a check to a bride-to-be before the wedding, should it be made out in her maiden name or in her future marriage name?

A: In her maiden name.

Summer Session At Paltz College Inaugurates System

A total of 1,791 students are enrolled at the State University summer programs which mark the inauguration of a year round quarter system at the College, according to figures released today by Dr. Wm. J. Haggerty, president of the college. Last year, 1,569 attended the summer session.

This summer's enrolment figure, President Haggerty said, includes attendance in the following programs: 860 students attending the 10-week summer quarter which began June 24 and will continue to August 30, 758 in the six-week summer session for graduates and advanced undergraduates from July 1 to August 9, and an additional 173 graduate students enrolled in a six-week program at the State University Agricultural and Technical Institute at Farmingdale which is conducted by the College at New Paltz, also from July 1 to August 9.

With the beginning of the summer quarter last week, the College at New Paltz began an experimental year round operation on a quarter basis in which new students will enroll at the beginning of each of the four quarters. It is anticipated that more students will be accommodated during any 12-month period by utilizing the facilities more fully.

Included in the 10-week summer quarter enrolment figures are 168 freshmen, many of whom graduated from high school just last week, and 692 other upperclassmen. Courses of study include work leading to a Bachelor of Arts or a Bachelor of Science Degree in many specialized areas.

In addition to the formal courses, the College has arranged for a variety of recreational and cultural activities — including lectures, concerts, films, plays, field trips, picnics, dances, and sports—to round out the extensive summer program.

We The Women

Kindness Is the Key

Even a youngster can have the knack of putting herself into another's place, and will often use this gift to deflate or embarrass a friend.

If her parents don't encourage her to use this uncanny ability to help rather than to hurt, that child will grow up to be a very unpleasant woman.

There's at least one such woman in almost every group — the woman who spoils small triumphs for others, who reminds them of things they would like to forget, who has a habit of introducing a painful conversation with the most innocent-sounding question.

The sad thing is that such women have the same knack for knowing what others are feeling as do the most charming and agreeable of women.

But they use it in the wrong way. Knowing how others feel, they use the knowledge to hurt, to take the other person down a notch or two.

A charming woman uses her knowledge of other people to build them up, to say just the right word, to make an accomplishment seem even more important than it is, to smooth troubled waters and take the sting out of someone else's careless remark.

The ability to put yourself in another's place can be a great gift if coupled with kindness.

When used to deflate and puncture the ego of others, to probe the most sensitive spots in their natures, it is a real curse.

That's a lesson mothers can teach their daughters — not by lectures, but by example.

Maverick Concerts To Feature Unique Percussion Quartet

Certain to overtake the success of their first concert at the Maverick last season the Paul Price Percussion Quartet will again perform in a program of unusual works using unusual instruments Sunday, 3 p. m. at the Maverick Hall, Woodstock.

Paul Price, called "Mr. Percussion" by Leopold Stokowski, has a solid musical background having received an MM from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. He went on to further study at the New England Conservatory of Music and began specialization in percussion working with George Carey and with Fred Noak in Timpani.

Mr. Price is a former faculty member of Boston University and the University of Illinois and has been a member of "music clinics" at such Universities as Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Tennessee, Minnesota and numerous others. He was editor of "Music for Percussion," and wrote texts as well as ensemble and solo works.

Not above using such items as cow bells, brake drums, even flower pots, Mr. Price naturally provides sounds that are sure to enlist the attention of his audiences and dispel the most hidebound ennui. He has played a large role in the growing interest displayed in percussion music and younger listeners who are in the vanguard of his appreciative followers will want to make prompt reservations.

At 8:30 p. m. Saturday, July 20, Salvador Ley will give a piano concert at the Maverick and Sunday, July 21, at 3 p. m. William Kroll will perform on the violin accompanied by Artur Balsam on the piano.

Talented Pianist Will Perform at Innisfree Concert

Robert Guralnik, brilliant young pianist, will be among the musicians performing again at Innisfree Gardens, Millbrook, July 28 at 4 p. m., in the second of a series of concerts being held there this summer.

Mr. Guralnik, who made his New York debut at Town Hall in April, 1962, studied at the Manhattan School of Music and then spent three years in the U. S. Army, serving as piano soloist with the U. S. Military Band at West Point. Having decided on a concert career, Mr. Guralnik gave two recital tours of Europe, including one last fall, and has given recitals in Washington, D. C., Boston, and throughout the Hudson Valley. Next season Mr. Guralnik, first winner of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Young Artists Award, will be a Philharmonic soloist at one of the orchestra's concerts in Newburgh.

Performing with Mr. Guralnik at Innisfree this month will be the Hudson Valley String Quartet: Alice Smiley, first violin; Murray Gould, violin; Gary Van Orsdale, viola, and Sterling Hunkins, cello. The Quartet and Mr. Guralnik are playing in many parts of the Hudson Valley during the summer, including Storm King Arts Center, and New Paltz State University College.

Their first concert at Innisfree, in June, was well received by the audience, which found the "Gallery" a cool escape from the heat and the terraces outside the house pleasantly breezy. The house stands on a hill above Tyrell Lake, and the audience enjoyed the Oriental Gardens and sweeping lawns while drinking lemonade which was served, without charge, by the Innisfree Concerts committee.

The program for the July 28 concert will include Beethoven's String Quartet in G Major, opus 18, No. 2; La Oracion del Torero by Turina and the Quartet for piano and strings in C minor, opus 60, of Brahms.

A third concert will be held on Aug. 18. Tickets for these concerts are available at the door, or may be purchased by writing to Mrs. R. W. Murphy, 74 New Hackensack Road, Poughkeepsie.

Volunteers Assist Victims of Callous Landlords in Gotham

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—"My baby was bitten by a rat last night—the third time. The landlord says we don't have rats—"

"The ceiling is about to fall in the bathroom. We're afraid to take baths."

"I have seven children. Last winter we had no heat. Now we have no water. I've been to one agency after another—"

The calls pour in—pathetic recitations of how families are trying to live in incredible filth and privation in America's largest city.

The women handling the five constantly ringing telephones feel pity, anger—but not despair. Not anymore. They know they're doing something to help these victims of callous landlords and cumbersome municipal bureaucracy.

Thirty women volunteers of "Call for Action" are pioneering a new kind of joint public service by broadcasters and private citizens.

Radio station WMCA, headed by a crusading president, R. Peter Straus, announces Call for Action's information service regularly on the air.

As the calls come in, the women refer them to the right agency among the nearly dozen concerned with enforcing city housing laws.

"But we don't stop with straightening out which agency—and they overlap pitifully," says Mrs. Louis G. Cowan, cochairman with Mrs. Samuel Hartwell. "We keep running records on the status of each complaint. We follow up with phone checks and make on-the-scene inspections. We go to court to see how the cases are handled. And we keep files on landlords. We can put out at random cards that show an owner has paid 80 fines, which is still cheaper than fixing the ceilings or getting rid of rats."

S and E Farms Rallies to Nip Eagles, 3-2, in City League

Bob Beadle Goes Distance, Allows Only Seven Hits

Sixth inning singles by Paul Natale, Paul Giannuzzi and Frank Sammons gave the S and E a pair of runs and a 3-2 victory over the Eagles in a City league baseball game yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

Lefty Bob Beadle hurled the distance for the winners. He spaced seven hits, walked six and struck out eight. Billy Costello and Ted Marable shared hurling duties for the Eagles with Marable being tagged with the setback.

Shortstop John Burris was a defensive star for the losers. He made a sparkling play to halt a potential big inning.

Tonight's game will match the Port Ewen Merchants against the Kingston Merchants. Two fastballing righthanders—Wayne Johnson of Port Ewen and John Nolan of Kingston will duel.

A's Owner Wants to Move Club

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — American League President Joe Cronin confirmed today that Charles O. Finley, owner of the Kansas City club, had expressed interest at an executive session on the eve of the All-Star game in moving his Athletics to Oakland, Calif.

Cronin, however, emphasized that Finley had made "no formal request," to move the A's franchise. It would need at least eight affirmative ballots of the 10 owners to switch the franchise.

The Associated Press had learned exclusively Monday that Finley, rebuffed a year ago in his effort to move the A's to Dallas, was seeking a new home in California.

The Oakland City Council and the Alameda County Board of Supervisors recently approved issuing $25 million in revenue bonds to build a 48,500-seat all-purpose stadium in Oakland. The park, however, is not expected to be completed before 1965.

Horace Stoneham, president of the National League's San Francisco Giants, confirmed that Finley had approached him in an effort to secure the use of the Giants' Candlestick Park until the Oakland stadium was finished.

"Mr. Finley was in to see me 10 days or two weeks ago," Stoneham said in San Francisco. "He asked me if his club could play in Candlestick Park as a starter—until Oakland finished a proposed stadium.

"But I told him it would be better for him to establish himself directly in Oakland. As I understand it, Mr. Finley had talked to and received backing of certain interests in Oakland."

Discussed Problems

While denying that Finley had formally requested a move, Cronin said: "Mr. Finley discussed with us his problems in Kansas City, as he did a year ago, and expressed an interest in moving to Oakland. I cannot say any more at this time."

Other American League officials, at first hesitant to discuss the matter, acknowledged that a heated discussion had taken place on Finley's proposal. The move took the other owners completely by surprise.

Several American League owners, said privately a Kansas City to Oakland move would be welcomed since it would create a second Pacific Coast team to match the Los Angeles Angels, simplify travel arrrangements, reduce costs for everyone and create a strong intra-state rivalry.

The A's, mired in the second division of the American League for the eight years they've been in Kansas City, are troubled with skidding attendance despite the promotional efforts of the fiery Finley, who gained controlling interest in December 1960.

Kellenberger Unable To Attend KBA Fete

Martin M. Kellenberger, former Kingston bowler and business man and now Republican sheriff of Palm Beach County, Florida, will not be able to attend tonight's 27th annual installation dinner of the Kingston Bowling Assn., slated for 7:30 o'clock at the Gov. Clinton Hotel.

Kellenberger said the business of his office is such at this time that he is unable to get away. He sends his sincere regrets to all his former friends, who had looked forward to seeing him.

President-elect Edwin Wildey of Rochester heads the state and area bowling officials at tonight's dinner. Philip J. Battaglia will be installed as local president and Chester Smith, outgoing president, will be elevated to life membership.

Margaret Smith Wins Wimbleton Women's Title

By GEOFFREY MILLER

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Margaret Smith, the tall and statuesque 20-year-old from Albery, Australia, wore the laurels of two Wimbledon triumphs with coolness and poise today and laid for all time the gibe that she hasn't got the temperament for the big occasion.

She and Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., men's singles champion, were the outstanding personalities of a Wimbledon that had plenty of rain but lacked the colorful players of past tournaments.

Monday, "Big Marge" slaughtered Billie Jean Moffitt, the Californian teen-ager, in the singles final and won the mixed doubles in partnership with Ken Fletcher.

She nearly emulated Doris Hart's feat of 12 years ago by taking three titles. She lost the women's doubles to Maria Buenos of Brazil and Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., mainly because her partner, Robyn Ebbern, 18, was too nervous for the occasion.

They used to say that Margaret was nervous, too, but she didn't show it in this tournament. Right from the start of the singles final, she looked more confident than the usually bouncy Billie Jean. The Australian girl won 6-3, 6-4.

Billie Jean, who studied all winter and didn't start serious tennis until May, confessed afterwards that you can't concentrate on your education and win top class tennis tournaments, too.

The women's singles final had been postponed from Saturday because of rain. So Margaret didn't have the honor of leading off the Wimbledon ball with McKinley on Saturday night, according to tradition. He danced with his wife, Wylita, instead.

MohawksTrounce Seneca, 6-0

Mohawks used a pair of three-run innings to whitewash the Seneca, 6-0, in a Metropolitan Knothole league game. Andy Magaldino won it over Al Eisele.

Ken Godby had the only extra base hit of the game, a double for the Mohawks. Joe Nagy singled three times for Seneca.

Teenager Has Early Margin In Women's State Amateur

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—An unheralded 15-year-old Oneida girl held the spotlight today at the 34th annual New York State Women's Amateur Golf Tournament.

Deborah Austin, who grew up near the Oneida Community Golf Course, registered a 39-41—80 to pace the field in Monday's opening round play.

Mrs. Harry J. Nevil Jr. of Cooperstown, the defending champion, finished the first 18 holes of qualifying play in a three-way tie for 11th place at 89.

Fifty-degree temperatures and a steady rain hampered the field of 60.

The low eight at the end of 36 holes, including today's 18, will qualify for the championship match play beginning Wednesday and continuing through Friday.

Deborah, a high school sophomore, lives in Kenwood, an Oneida suburb, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Austin. Until Monday, she had not figured prominently in any top golf events.

She plays now out of the Teugega Country Club in Rome. She was the junior champion of the Syracuse district last year. Her family lives in Florida in the winter so she has been playing golf virtually the year around.

Women's par is 76 over the 6,215-yard Whiteface Inn course.

Mrs. Jeffrey Smythe of Saugerties, the former Linda Healey of Syracuse, was in second place with 40-43—83.

Three former champions also were among the leaders. Miss Gail Purdy of Saratoga Springs had 86, Mrs. Philip Allen of Syracuse shot an 88, and Mrs. Reinert Torgeson of Forest Hills posted a 90.

Sue Rich of Skaneateles, runner-up last year, had an 85.

BYRON NELSON shoots for the fairway, not distance,

Trouble

Everybody gets in trouble on a golf course.

Getting out of trouble is half the fun.

If you keep count, you'll probably be surprised how many times superior players get into difficulties that might prove disastrous to a weekend golfer, yet often wind up putting for birdies.

Get out of trouble as cheaply as you can. Better to waste distance in getting back on the fairway with one stroke than to squander a flock of strokes getting nowhere, except possibly in deeper trouble.

Sand traps aren't too difficult once you have mastered that handy instrument, the wedge. Bad lies in the rough require careful study to determine what club will get the ball back into more satisfactory territory with the maximum distance. Selecting a club that hasn't much chance of dislodging the ball simply because it is meant for the distance is foolhardy.

Shoot around trouble if possible, even if it means you can't get all the distance you like.

Woodstock Motor Club Enters Two Events

Members of the Woodstock Motor club participated in two local events this past week.

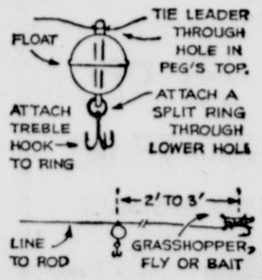

On July 4, the members paraded in Saugerties with a float and a car. The float was designed to resemble a radio station blockhouse and antenna. The theme was the "Voice of Radio Free Europe."

On Sunday, four cars were exhibited at the Old Car show in Catskill. Ed Gardner of Saugerties entered his 1929 Hupmobile roadster in the 1920-29 restored class. Gus Lovy's 1924 Model T, Mike Lovy's 1931 Auburn sedan and Pete Kearney's 1954 Jaguar couple were also entered in various classes.

Rosey Grier Traded To LA for LoVetere

'Fearsome Foursome' Is Now Broken Up

By BOB GREEN

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Giants' famed defensive unit, the "Fearsome Foursome," is no more.

The Giants broke up the vaunted front line unit by trading tackle Roosevelt Grier to Los Angeles Monday for tackle John LoVetere and a high draft choice.

Grier, 31, a 6-foot-5, 290-pounder, combined with tackle Dick Modzelewski and ends Jim Katcavage and Andy Robustelli on the Giants' front line that helped win five Eastern Division titles and one National Football League championship.

LoVetere, 27, is 6-foot-4 and weighs 285. He has been in the league five seasons and three times has been chosen as the Rams top linesman.

"The Rams initiated the trade to strengthen their line," said Giant coach Allie Sherman. "They feel that'll be an asset to the defense. But we feel it will help us, too, because in addition to getting LeVetere, the deal should solidify our backfield."

Sherman plans to use the draft choice as bait for a deal for a top running back.

Grier, who will be starting his eighth season in the league, and the other three members of the Giants defensive unit played together every minute of every season since 1956, except for 1957 when Grier was in the Army and a few games toward the end of the 1960 season when Katcavage was hurt.

At Los Angeles, Grier will join Hrland Svare, an old teammate on the Giants and now Ram head coach.

"I rank him one of the top tackles in the league," Svare said. "All of his training and playing has been under the type of defense we will be teaching."

The Giants said LoVetere had impressed them in pre-season games.

LoVetere attended Compton Junior College but did not play football there. He was signed by the Rams as a free agent after he had played service football.

Golfing 'Big Five' Fails to Win Money

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP) — Golfing's affluent five—Arnold Palmer, Julius Boros, Jack Nicklaus, Tony Lema and Gary Player—didn't win an official penny last week.

Most of them passed up the Canadian Open to go on to England to prepare for the British Open. Their absence allowed the lower end of the PGA's list of top 10 money winners to gain ground.

Dow Finsterwald, in sixth place, picked up $625 at Toronto. Seventh place Gene Littler won $1,150, and eighth-place Tom Aaron won $1,400.

Bruce Crampton finished third at Toronto and the $2,633 he won was enough to boost him to ninth place. Paul Harney, in 10th spot last week, fell off.

Pesky Would Really Welcome All Houk's Yankee Problems

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

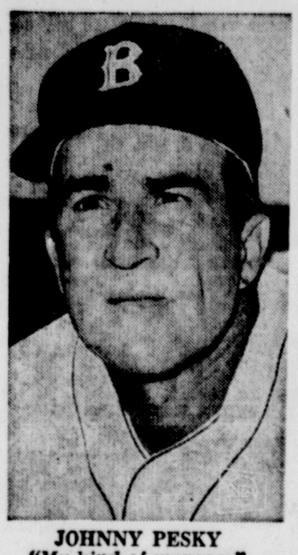

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Johnny Pesky barged into Yankee Stadium with the Red Sox for his first appearance in the Bronx as manager.

Someone suggested to Pesky that this might be the year to beat the Yankees what with their string of injuries, starting with Mickey Mantle, and for them an unusually large number of disappointments.

"Ralph Houk ha.. his problems," said a baseball writer as Pesky climbed into his uniform in the visitors' clubhouse.

"I'd like to have Ralph's problems," countered Pesky, who has the Boston club which tied for seventh last season smack-dab in contention. "The Yankees' fine personnel can take up a lot of slack.

"And I'll tell you another thing—if the Yankees have problems Houk will know how to solve them."

JOHNNY PESKY
"My kind of manager"

Pesky has come in close contact with a number of famous managers since he was the clubhouse boy for the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League. He recalls Spencer Abbott, a renowned minor league manager, from those early days. In the American League he played under Joe Cronin, Joe McCarthy, Steve O'Neill, Lou Boudreau, Red Rolfe, Fred Hutchinson and Bucky Harris.

But he models himself after Houk, now his foremost rival.

"Houk started me on this side of the fence," recalls Pesky, "and while I'll try to knock his head off on the field, Ralph's my kind of a guy and manager.

"I don't mind telling you that I try to do everything just like him.

"When I finished up as a player with Washington in 1954, I wanted to stay in baseball in some capacity and Paul Richards took me to the Oriole's training camp at Daytona Beach in 1955. Had Richards been able to engineer a trade, I would have stayed with Baltimore, but he couldn't and I was out of baseball for about 10 days.

"Then the telephone rang and it was Lee McPhail, then in the Yankees' front office. He wanted to know if I would like to go to Denver as a player-coach under Houk. He only had to ask me once.

"I joined the Denver Bears May 5 and started to learn about managing. We had some fine youngsters — Bobby Richardson, Tony Kubek, Woody Held and Whitey Herzog.

"I quickly learned that the players liked Houk. He enjoyed both their confidence and respect. The age gap between him and his players was not as great as it is in most cases and it seemed to make him closer to them. He had natural ability to command.

"He was flexible and never carried a grudge. He'd fight somebody right off his feet during a game and, meeting him three hours later, he'd ask him how he was, just as pretty as you please.

"I noticed that Houk kept track of every little thing, never trusted his memory.

"The ball can be hit a long way in the thin Denver air and that made Houk even more conscious of his pitching. A ball that would be just another base hit elsewhere easily might go out of Bear Stadium. It was remarkable how Houk nursed his pitching along under the circumstances.

"We'd go to the park at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and chew tobacco and talk baseball until the game started at 8 that night. Once the training season starts, Houk thinks of nothing but baseball until fall. I'm like that myself and it could be why Ralph told me I should manage. I started in the Detroit chain the next spring."

Told of Pesky's kind words, Houk in the other clubhouse said: "Naturally, a manager has to know baseball and what his players and the opponents can do and not do. He must know when to change pitchers, pinch hit, hit and run, sacrifice, etc. He has to make decisions on the spur of the moment. Some will be right and some will turn out wrong.

"There isn't much a manager can do in a game he is losing or winning by a lopsided score, say 10-to-2. Strategic moves perhaps decide 22 games out of 162.

"If you know how to handle people and are conscientious and work at it, there really isn't much to managing."

So, you see, Ralph Houk knocks much of the poppycock about inside baseball up into the seats with one good swing.

Reports Yemeni Villagers Perish From Gas Attacks

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A former American officer fighting in Yemen's civil war said today Yemeni villagers have died from gas symptoms after Egyptian attacks, but there is no proof that Egyptian forces are using actual poison gas.

"Evidence shows the gas may have come from Napalm fire bombs which failed to explode," said a report reaching here from Bruce Abourrahman Conde, a lieutenant colonel in the royalist army of Yemen's dethroned Imam (king).

Conde's report said Soviet-made Ilyushin bombers of the Egyptian air force attacked royalist villages in Yemen and then dropped unidentified canisters into the rubble. Fumes from the canisters killed some villagers. Others coughed blood and vomited for weeks, he said.

Conde, a former U.S. Army and Air Force officer from California, is a Yemeni citizen. The report he sent here tallied with a London Daily Telegraph report charging the Egyptians with poison gas attacks.

Both Conde and the Telegraph said the equipment used was supplied by the Soviet bloc.

Britain Approves Malaysia Group; Brunei Stays Out

LONDON (AP)—The way was clear today for formation of the Federation of Malaysia around the South China Sea on Aug. 31, but Brunei and its oil wells are staying out.

Britain gave its agreement early today in signing a treaty with the four commonwealth territories that will form the federation —independent Malaya, the self-governing island colony of Singapore and the Borneo territories of Sarawak and British North Borneo.

The West sees Malaysia as a buffer zone against Communist expansion in Southeast Asia. The crescent-shaped federation of 130,818 square miles extends from the border of Thailand to within reach of the Philippines. It includes 10 million persons and is rich in tin and rubber.

Singapore boats one of the busiest ports in Asia and is the site of a huge British military complex.

In the Russian view, given today by the Soviet news agency Tass, Britain "hopes to use the new federation to preserve the positions of British imperialism and combat the national liberation movement in Southeast Asia."

Tax, CR Action After JFK Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic congressional leaders said after their weekly conference with President Kennedy today that both tax and civil rights legislation were matters of "uppermost priority."

House speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts refused to give No. 1 priority to either. To do so, he said, would confuse the situation.

"As far as I am concerned, the tax bill is a matter of uppermost priority," McCormack said. "Civil rights is a matter of uppermost priority."

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic Senate leader, said the full Senate Judiciary Committee will begin hearings on the civil rights bill a week from today.

This committee has primary jurisdiction over most phases of the civil rights bill other than public accommodations. The Senate Commerce Committee is holding hearings on public accomodations legislation.

Influential Eastern GOPs Backward on '64 Candidate

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Influential Eastern Republicans appear to be making little progress toward picking a candidate to back in the 1964 GOP presidentil nomintion race.

Reports that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has turned thumbs down on both Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller indicate a split with the old pro who helped the general become president—former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Dewey, who proved in three conventions from 1944 through 1952 that he knew how to get the nomination for himself or the man of his choice, has committed himself to Rockefeller as "the logical nominee."

The two-time presidential candidate took this action shortly after Rockefeller's marriage to the former Margaretta Murphy, and there has been no sign of any withdrawal of this commitment.

Sens. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., and Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., remain loyal to Rockefeller. Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., who used to get in a plug for the New York governor now and then, recently has confined himself to saying that Rockefeller's marriage hasn't helped him politically.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., is beating the drums for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania as a favorite son candidate. Scranton, who once thought Rockefeller would make a good nominee, now doesn't seem so sure.

Scranton, Gov. George Romney of Michigan, Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., and Gen. Lucius D. Clay reportedly drew mention from Eisenhower as men who ought not to be overlooked in the contest for the nomination.

Morton, a former Republican national chairman and now head of the GOP senatorial campign committee, is well cquainted with party members from all of the states. But he says he hasn't even "hit the approach" of the bridge he would have to cross to bid for the nomination.

Morton denied on a taped radio program that the inclusion of his name on the general's list made him "Eisenhower's boy." But he indicated he thinks Eisenhower is likely to have some influence in the choice of a nominee.

"I'd say that whether he wants to be the leader or not, that Gen. Eisenhower today commands the respect of more Republicans than any other man," Morton said.

Morton said in response to questions he thinks that if Goldwater got the nomination "we'd have a good chance of winning the presidency."

Protests Are Due Again as Books Close

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Negroes in this Mississippi capital city, who stopped their protest demonstrations three weeks ago to concentrate on a vote registration campaign, today found the registration books suddenly closed.

"The chances are that the demonstrations will start again unless something is done about the registration," said the Rev. R. L. T. Smith, one of the leaders in Jackson's civil rights crusade.

Mississippi law provides that the vote registrar "shall keep his books open at his office and shall register the electors of his county at any time."

But Hinds County Circuit Clerk H. S. Ashford, who is also the vote registrar, said his small staff was overburdened preparing for the Aug. 6 Democratic primary in which there will be 138 names on the ballot.

The New Orleans Times-Picayune, in a dispatch from its Jackson bureau, quoted Ashford as saying he had been advised to stop vote registration under a directive issued by Circuit Judges M. M. McGowan and Leon Hendrick.

Following the assassination June 12 of Medgar Evers, Negro leaders agreed to a cessation of public demonstrations and directed their campaign toward voter registration.

Nearly 700 Negroes have gone to Ashford's office since then to seek registration. There have been long lines of Negro vote applicants in the courthouse daily.

Ashford said the fact his office wasn't registering anyone has no effect on the August primaries or the November general election. No one who registers betwen July 5 and Nov. 5—date of the general election—can vote because voters must be registered four months before a general election.

He did not make it clear if the voter rolls would remain closed until after the primaries or the general election.

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Cantalopes Enhance Two Salad Ideas

CANTALOUPE STARS in California Julienne Salad.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Our California friends claim that the cantaloupes from their state are the sweetest and most succulent. They may be right. Certainly their recipes for California cantaloupe live up to the Golden State's reputation for fine food.

California Cantaloupe Julienne Salad
(6 to 8 servings)

1 cantaloupe
½ lb. bolied ham
2 cups cooked chicken
1 large tomato
1 head romaine or other lettuce
⅓ cup Italian dressing

Cut rind from cantaloupe. Cut melon lengthwise into halves; remove seeds. Place cut sides down on board; cut crosswise into thin slices. Cut ham and chicken into thin strips. Cut tomato into wedges. Dice lettuce into large bowl; toss with green pepper. Arrange "clusters" of cantaloupe, ham, chicken and tomato over lettuce. Drizzle with dressing.

Tangy Cali-lope Compote
(5 to 6 servings)

1 cantaloupe
½ cup grapes
1 package (10 oz.) frozen pineapple chunks
3 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
Dash salt

Cut cantaloupe into halves; remove seeds. Using a French ball cutter or ½ teaspoon measure, cut out melon balls. Halve and seed grapes. Drain pineapple chunks, saving ¼ cup syrup. Blend syrup with brown sugar, lemon juice and salt. Toss together melon balls, grapes and pineapple. Pour over syrup mixture and chill well. Spoon into chilled compotes.

Shelter for Card Players

RENO (AP)—Gamblers won't have to go far in case of nuclear attack.

One of five community fallout shelters recently stocked with food and medical supplies is in Harolds Club, a Reno casino.

Ave to Receive Briefing Before Moscow Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran diplomat W. Averell Harriman gets some last-minute instructions today from President Kennedy on the eve of his nuclear mission to Moscow.

The top-level strategy session also will bring Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and other officials to the White House in the afternoon.

Harriman, undersecretary of state for political affairs, will represent the United States at nuclear test ban talks opening in the Soviet capital on Monday. He leaves Wednesday, planning to stop over in London for a day's conference with Lord Hailsham, who will represent Britain.

Since the three-nation talks were set up, Soviet Premier Khrushchev proposed linking the test ban problem to an East-West nonaggression pact.

Although Harriman, a former ambassador to Moscow, can be expected to listen carefully to what the Russians have to say about a pact, he and Hailsham are in no position to negotiate an agreement between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact nations, officials said.

NATO has 15 members and however, important the roles played by the United States and Britain, officials said they have no mandate from their partners to enter into meaningful negotiations on such an issue.

NOTICE IN CHANGE IN ELECTRIC AND GAS RATE SCHEDULES

Amendments to rate schedules P.S.C. No. 11 — Electricity and P.S.C. No. 11 — Gas filed with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York to become effective July 26, 1963 revise the general regulations designated relating to billing for service rendered and to discontinuance of service for nonpayment of bills in each schedule.

The billing for service rendered section is amended to provide for prorating of bills for billing periods other than those between regular monthly and bimonthly meter readings. The length of these periods shall be computed to the nearest tenth of a month determined as one-thirtieth of the number of days between the beginning and end of such billing periods adjusted to eliminate any differences between thirty days and the actual number of days in any calendar month which ended within the billing period. In determining the charges for service supplied during such billing periods the monthly rates stated in the service classifications shall be prorated in proportion to the length of the period so computed.

The section on discontinuance of service for nonpayment of bills is amended to retain the provision requiring five days written notice before such discontinuance as provided by law and eliminate the provision requiring fifteen days written notice when the unpaid bills are based upon an estimated usage for two consecutive billing periods.

Stratton Insists He Won't Aim For Senate Post

WASHINGTO N (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., said today recent structural changes in New York's Democratic State Committee will focus attention on possible senatorial candidates from Upstate and Long Island.

But Stratton insisted he is not a candidate for the party's senatorial nomination next year to oppose Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, Rochester Republican. Keating has been reported considering possible retirement if Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., is the Republican Presidential candidate.

Stratton, former Schenectady mayor who now lives in Amsterdam, unsuccessfully sought the Democratic gubernatorial nomination last year.

Keating will say nothing for the record about any possible retirement to avoid running on the same ticket with Goldwater but has reportedly mentioned it privately to some associates.

Goldwater is a conservative with whom Keating sometimes disagrees on major issues.

Keating was elected to the senate in 1958 by pollin g 2,842,942 votes to his opponent's 2,709,950 votes.

Long Island and Upstate counties will have a stronger voice in party affairs under the structural changes approved by New York Democrats last month.

The move could dilute some of New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner's influence in the party. Wagner also has been mentioned as a possible senatorial candidate next year.

Stratton said the rules changes underline the importance of the Upstate Democratic vote which is now larger than that in New York City.

Report on Airliner Crash Due in Fall

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board says a report will be issued this fall on last Tuesday's airliner crash that killed seven persons.

William Lamb of Washington, CAB supervisor of air safety investigation, said Monday a public hearing will probably be held here in mid-August, a full report on the crash, he said, would be issued 6-8 weeks after the hearing.

The twi-engine Mohawk Airlines plane plummeted to earth seconds after takeoff at Rochester-Monroe County Airport. It crashed in a muddy area during a violent electrical and hail storm.

The pilot and co-pilot were among the dead. The stewardess survived. A report by the Monroe County medical examiner's office Monday said the victims died of multiple fractures and severe cuts.

Nineteen of the 36 survivors remained in hospitals today, five critically injured.

Some observers believed the mud cushioned the crash, keeping the number of deaths low.

Dan Said to JFK

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "Mr. Patriotic" has changed. It was that Kennedy presidential handshake that did it.

"Mr. Patriotic" is a 9-year-old Nashville lad named Danny White. He has red hair. And in typical boy fashion, he gets a lot of bruises. So folks in his neighborhood began putting name and coloring together and said they had a boy who was red, white and blue — thus "Mr. Patriotic."

Then President Kennedy came to town and shook his hand.

Right off the lad disowned his title.

"Don't call me patriotic," he said, "I'm a Democrat."

Bridge Setting for Whodunit

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

It has always been a mystery why no one has ever used a bridge tournament as the setting for a "Whodunit."

Life Master Don Von Elsner finally has done it, in the paperback, "How to Succeed at Murder Without Really Trying."

The book is told in the first person by self-styled bridge bum Jake Winkman. He is not a very savory character and bears little or no resemblance to any bridge player living or dead, but in the end Winkman turns out to be a first grade hero.

Searching someone's bedroom for clues, Winkman finds today's hand written on a sheet of paper. He recognizes it as one that I played in 1932 and that Watson used in his classic book on play as an illustration of the Deschapelles Coup.

The hand was played in the finals of the Summer National knockout team and helped the team of Watson, Lightner, Gottlieb and this writer win it.

I sat West and my jack of spades held the first trick. After looking dummy over carefully, I shifted to the queen of diamonds. This lead effectively killed the dummy's heart suit and left declarer with no play for his contract.

I have always wondered how the defense would have gone if our partners had contracted for three no-trump, but will never find out. Lightner and Gottlieb played and made four hearts without any trouble at all.

Incidentally the hand turned out to be an important clue. Winkman deducted that the occupant of the room was taking bridge lessons from someone.

Calif. and Florida Lead

Bigger Voices Due For Some States at '64 GOP Convention

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) —California and Florida will have relatively bigger voices in the 1964 Republican convention while such states as West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Nevada, Connecticut and Louisiana will have substantially fewer votes than in 1960.

The tentative apportionment of delegates to the GOP presidential nominating convention in San Francisco next July calls for a total of 1,308 —each with one vote — compared with 1,331 four years ago.

1960 Formula

The apportionment is made up by the Republican National Committee under a formula approved by the 1960 convention.

The Democrats, who meet next year in Atlantic City, don't expect to announce their apportionment of delegates until this fall.

California and Florida Republicans drew hefty increases mostly because the increases in their populations entitled them to more congressional representation. The GOP apportionment of delegates is based partly on the number of congressional districts in a state.

California gets 86 votes next year compared with 70 in 1960. Florida will have 34, an increase of eight.

New York will have the biggest delegation with 92 votes, down four.

W. Va. Biggest Loser

West Virginia was the biggest loser, dropping from 22 votes in 1960 to 14 next year. Nevada, Pennsylvania, Connecticut and Louisiana each will lose six.

If Kentucky, Mississippi or Louisiana should elect Republican governors in upcoming elections, each would get six more bonus votes.

Under the plan adopted by the 1960 convention ,each state gets a minimum of two votes for each senator, two for each representative at large, and a bonus of six if the state voted Republican in the 1960 presidential election or chose a Republican governor or senator then or in a subsequent election.

Additionally, each congressional district gets two votes unless it failed to draw at least 12,000 Republican votes in the 1960 presidential election or House race in that district in 1960 or subsequently.

Near-Freezing Mercury Chills Areas of State

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Record low temperatures, some near freezing, chilled New Yorkers on this July day, and more of the same was in prospect, on the heels of an extended heat wave.

The mercury ranged in the 30s and 40s overnight across Upstate New York. It hit 31 on Whiteface Mountain in the Adirondacks and 34 at Arcade in the southwestern county of Wyoming.

Albany's 41 around dawn was the lowest ever recorded here in July. Other records for the date included Binghamton's and Cortland's 39, Rochester's 42, Buffalo's 47 and New York City's 54.

The Weather Bureau said tonight would be unseasonably cool after a day of partly fair skies and scattered showers. Wednesday is expected to be mostly sunny and a little warmer.

Other overnight lows:

Oneonta 35; Olean 36; Elmira 42; Glens Falls 43; Poughkeepsie and Utica 44; Massena 47; Syracuse 48; Watertown 50.

Ice Box Town Just That as Mercury Is 30

KANE, Pa. (AP)—This Northwestern Pennsylvania town, often referred to as the ice box of Pennsylvania, lived up to its reputation today.

The temperature dropped to a low of 30 degrees overnight; it was the fourth time within a week that Kane had overnight temperatures in the 30s.

COMPLETE LEADERS TRAINING—Three members of Kingston YMCA Leaders Corps returned this weekend following a training session last week at Silver Bay, Lake George. A total of 172 young leaders representing 38 YMCA organizations in the East, attended. The local youths with adult leaders are (l-r) front, Justin Beck, Jack Baltz and Larry Flowers; rear, adult leaders are Harry Flowers Jr., a member of the Y board of directors; Joseph Scholar, chairman of youth work of Kingston Lions Club and Louis H. Schafer, executive secretary. Kingston Lions Club sponsored the trip to Lake George.

YMCA Leaders Attend Course At Silver Bay

The three outstanding members of the Kingston YMCA Leaders Corps returned this weekend from a week's training in leadership at Silver Bay on Lake George, it was announced by Louis H. Schafer, executive secretary.

There were 172 YMCA boy leaders representing 38 associations on the Eastern Seaboard between Maine and Washington, D. C. There were 18 YMCA physical and youth directors acting as supervisors and aides in this leadership program.

The boys were taught how to instruct in gymnasium apparatus work, assist in tumbling and mat work as weil as direction on the trampoline. They are advised and given practical experience in teaching methods in areas such as the gymnasium, swimming areas and playgrounds. The school teaches techniques in assisting youngsters in a program of physical education and recreation. The special techniques in life saving and new ideas for safety in bathing are taught by experts from the National YMCA aquatic and American Red Cross Life Saving Service.

Kingston boys attending were: Justin Beck, attending his fifth year; Jack Baltz and Larry Flowers attending for their third year. These boys, along with nine others in the Kingston YMCA leader's corps assist the physical director and youth director in many local Y activities. Executive secretary Schafer said he received his leadership as a high school boy and young man at Batavia YMCA. Now, he and his staff are passing this training on to the Y members.

Syracuse Man Killed

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Robert W. Cooter, 26, and Harold M. Van Sumeren, 32, both of Syracuse, were killed early today in a one-car accident on a detour at a construction site on Interstate Route 81 about a mile south of Syracuse.

Onondaga County sheriff's deputies said both men apparently were thrown from the automobile.

Johnston Still Serious

WASHINGTON (AP) — Motion picture executive Eric Johnston spent "a quiet night" in George Washington University Hospital, but there was "no change" in his serious condition from a stroke, a hospital spokesman said today.

Johnston, 66, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, has been hospitalized for several weeks.

Cuba Hits Speculators

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) —Government authorities have raided four clandestine auto repair shops in Havana and arrested their owners, the Cuban radio reported.

Why don't all homes have Oil Heat?

For a very simple reason! Oil heating equipment usually costs a little more to install. Although it does cost them a few more dollars, the vast majority of home builders in this area install today's modern oil heat because they know that oil provides better, safer and more dependable heat for less money . . . as much as $2000 over the life of an average mortgage. When a builder installs OIL HEAT, you can expect the entire house to reflect his integrity and attention to the basic features that give a home extra lasting value. Get the facts before you decide.
